Kidnap Probe At Dead End

Church Contact Plea By Mother Of Tot Ignored

WESTBURY, N.Y., July 8 (AP)—Mrs. Morris Weinberger's emotional plea that her 5-week-old son's kidnaper leave a message—or the child—in a church apparently went unheeded today.

The desperate mother renewed her radio and television appeal tonight, again suggesting clergymen or news broadcasters could be contacted by the kidnaper as go-betweens.

And Stuyvesant Pinnell, Nassau County chief of detectives, admitted the investigation into the area's second baby-snatching in nine months was at a dead end.

"I could give you a glowing story of what we're doing and the progress we're making," Pinnell told newsmen today, "but it would not be true."

"We have no leads."

Baby's Fate Speculated

So speculation grew as to whether little Peter Weinberger, who disappeared July 4 from his carriage on the rear patio of his parent's substantial ranch house, was still alive.

For four days now the anguished family has made a concerted effort to reach the kidnaper.

From the welter of telephone calls received from friend and crackpot alike two have stood out. Both came last Friday.

Weinberg said he thinks they were from the kidnaper, but Pinnell reiterated today there still was no proof, even though the ransom note contained a code to enable the kidnaper to establish identity.

Parents "Don't Want Revenge"

The 32-year-old mother's appeal for the kidnaper to use a church as a go-between was made yesterday.

First she suggested that the tiny fellow be left at a church today.

Later she appeared in a TV film, broadcast locally, to beg:

"Please use a church or clergyman anywhere to make contact with us. . . . Drop a note into a collection box. . . . The clergymen are all committed to us not to turn over the information to the police. . . . Please, please cooperate. We don't want revenge. We want our baby."

Japanese Vote Reported Light

TOKYO, Monday, July 9 (AP)—An estimated 31 million Japanese voted Sunday in a national upper house election that could set the course of this country's rearmament for the next three years.

The turnout—tentatively figured at 60 per cent—apparently was the lowest in Japan's 10 national elections since World War II.

The election provided a test of strength between Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's Conservatives and the opposition Socialists. Hatoyama's party, a merger of Liberals and Democrats, would push rearmament by rewriting Japan's present antiarmy constitution, adopted during the occupation.

Results in the first 33 races to be counted this morning gave the ruling Liberal Democrats 21, opposition Socialists 10 and Conservative-backed independents 2. That represented a net gain of one for the conservative forces. All told, 127 seats are at stake in the House of Councillors.

First Service In Crypt For 1,000 Years

Workmen reconstructing London's historic St. Bride's Church, badly damaged by World War II bombs, pause to admire John Lowe and the former Josephine Glanville as they leave the church crypt following their wedding. It was the first religious service in the crypt for 1,000 years. Lowe is director of the Mayflower project, which plans to sail a replica of the Pilgrim ship to America next spring. He met his bride when she applied for a job as crewman.

Layoffs Mount With Steel Tieup In Second Week

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (AP)—Some 650,000 steel workers and an estimated 50,000 in allied industries watched the steel strike drone into its second week today with economy losses snowballing across the nation.

The steel strike cost the nation about 250 million dollars last week, Steel magazine pointed out. With more furloughs and layoffs anticipated, the figure will climb sharply.

Early layoffs first hit the railroads and the freight trucking industries. Next Tuesday the coal industry will feel a staggering blow with the closing of captive-steel company owned-mines.

PRR Cuts Work Schedules

In another development over the weekend it was disclosed the Pennsylvania Railroad had placed 7,000 nonunion employees on reduced work schedules for the duration of the steel strike.

Railroad officials declined to confirm the news that the economy move would result in a 10 per cent reduction in pay for each nonunion employee, but with thousands of employees affected the pay cut was general knowledge.

No Sign Of Settlement

The move by the railroad is the second since the start of the strike. Last Monday the PRR announced the layoffs for more than 18,000 of its 105,000 employees because of the loss of its steel freight business.

There was no early sign of settlement. Further steel peace talks most likely will be announced by the government sometime this week. Negotiators for the U.S. and industry appear in no mood for early resumption of talks on their own.

Rain Strands Train

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 8 (AP)—Heavy rains washed out highways in south Alabama today and temporarily stranded passengers on a Southern Railway train en route from Mobile to Birmingham.

World Rainfall Record Reported In Frederick Co.

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP)—A new world rainfall record, 1.23 inches of rain in one minute's time appears to have been established during a cloudburst at Unionville, Frederick County, July 4.

Howard H. Engelbrecht, State climatologist of the U.S. Weather Bureau here, reported the record yesterday after personally inspecting the equipment and conditions under which it was set.

Pending a thorough investigation, Engelbrecht said, the measurement will shatter the record one-minute rainfall of .69 inch measure in a storm on July 10, 1955, near Jefferson, Iowa. The previous record was .65 inch fell in one minute during a storm at Opids Camp Los Angeles County, California, on April 5, 1926.

Three Britons Slain On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus, July 8 (AP)—Greek Cypriot extremists killed three Britons today on the eve of a Cypriot patriotic anniversary.

The victims were a civilian and his wife, shot dead while on a Sunday automobile outing 20 miles northeast of this island capital, and a British soldier shot in a patrol clash 25 miles west of the city.

The patrol spotted four men near a school building and ordered them to halt. The men opened fire. In the exchange the soldier was killed. The extremists escaped. The patrol found three shotguns and one unexploded bomb at the scene.

Tomorrow marks the anniversary of the execution by the Turks in 1821 of the Greek Orthodox archbishop on Cyprus and other church and civil leaders. For the first time in recent years, a ceremonial wreath-laying will not take place at the monument to the executed leaders, on the grounds of the Nicosia cathedral.

The entire area is prohibited to Cypriots. It is surrounded with barbed wire. Death of the two civilians led to some talk in British official quarters of arming British civilians on the island.

Two Ministers Fired In Wake Of Polish Revolt

VIENNA, Austria, July 8 (AP)—Radio Warsaw reported today a shakeup in two ministries in Poland's Communist government. It came 10 days after the workers' revolt in Poznan.

The radio gave no reason for the removal of Julian Tokarski as minister of automobile production, and Roman Fiedelski as head of the Ministry for Machine Industry.

It was noted that the "bread and freedom" revolt began on June 28 with a general strike by workers at the Stalin (Zispol) railway car works after hearing some of their representatives had been arrested by secret police. Other workers quickly joined the first demonstrators.

Jaszczuk Replaces Tokarski

Tokarski had been named to the new Ministry of Automobile Production in April of last year. He is being replaced by Boleslaw Jaszczuk, who has been minister of electric power.

Fiedelski got his appointment to head the machine industry at the same time as Tokarski. Fiedelski is being demoted to state secretary in the ministry which will now be headed by Eugeniusz Zwierzynski.

Hungary Frees Prisoners

While the Warsaw regime was announcing the dismissal of the two heads of ministries, Communist Hungary disclosed another in a series of moves believed by Western diplomats to be aimed at reducing discontent in that Soviet satellite country.

Erik Molnar, minister of justice, said 11,398 persons were released from prison following investigations by a rehabilitation commission. But the minister warned that the program of political rehabilitation would end soon, and those sentenced on justifiable grounds could not expect mercy.

Man Hurlled To Death From Roller Coaster

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J., July 8 (AP)—A 25-year-old Miami, Florida, man stood up in a rocketing roller coaster car early today and was hurled to his death on the pavement 50 feet below.

The cries of Marion Leon Yohan as he was ejected into space were drowned out by the usual screams of girl riders and the rattle of the car as it sped around a curve after the deepest dip.

Robert Yohan of Lodi, N.J., was in the car with his brother at Palisades Amusement Park atop the Hudson River cliffs opposite Manhattan.

Cliffside Park Police said Yohan stood up despite several warning signs for riders to stay strapped in their seats.

HONG KONG, July 8 (AP)—Peiping radio said today one woman was killed and five persons injured when Nationalist Chinese artillery based on Quemoy shelled Howpao village on Hsiaoeng Island off the Fukien coast yesterday.

Crash Blame Conclusions "Premature"

CAB Chief Rejects Aide's Testimony TWA Responsible

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., July 8 (AP)—Chairman James R. Durfee of the Civil Aeronautics Board today said any conclusions as to responsibility in the Grand Canyon air catastrophe "are decidedly premature at this time."

Durfee, here with a special House Commerce subcommittee to inspect the wreckage site of the TWA and United Airlines, repudiated testimony given yesterday by the CAB's chief investigator, William K. Andrews, at the subcommittee hearing in Las Vegas.

Andrews had said yesterday that "TWA had full responsibility for maintaining separation" between the planes after changing its flight plan. The two planes collided over Grand Canyon June 30, killing 128 persons.

Legislators Visit Scene

Five members of the Air Traffic Control subcommittee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), visited the crash scene this morning. They and Durfee flew in helicopters from Grand Canyon Airport to the north rim of the canyon. There they saw the wreckage sites, about a mile and a half away.

Durfee told newsmen that the conflicting testimony by Andrews and Oscar Bakke, CAB deputy director of safety regulations, was "due to the compelling urgency" of the hearing. He said it was "difficult to adequately gather, correlate and present material," in the short space of time since the crash.

"Equal Responsibility"

But he upheld Bakke, who said that the United Air Lines pilot had "equal responsibility" for looking out for another plane.

Durfee said that the CAB would push its investigation, hoping to complete it within two weeks. He said a public hearing to determine the cause officially will be held as soon as possible. He did not indicate the place.

Rep. Harris remained aloof from the CAB controversy, saying: "The facts have to speak for themselves. Any opinions and conclusions at this point, of course, are highly speculative."

Taber Expected To Reverse Role

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.), long famed for money-cutting efforts, may reverse his role and push for bigger foreign aid funds than were approved by the House Appropriations Committee.

But Rep. Passman (D-La.), voiced confidence the House would back the committee decision to chop foreign aid $1,400,000,000 below the almost five billion dollars sought by President Eisenhower.

The congressmen spoke in separate interviews as the aid program headed for another expected battle in the House, perhaps late tomorrow.

The bulk of the committee slash—more than $1,200,000,000—was from the three billion dollars Eisenhower wanted for military aid to non-Communist countries.

Taber, top Republican on the pursestrings group, said, "I am not satisfied with the figure on the military. I think it has been cut too deep."

With informal discussions still under way among different groups on Capitol Hill, Taber said he would not be able to disclose until tomorrow what funds—restoring move he may make.

Escaped Sentry Dog Heeds Master's Call

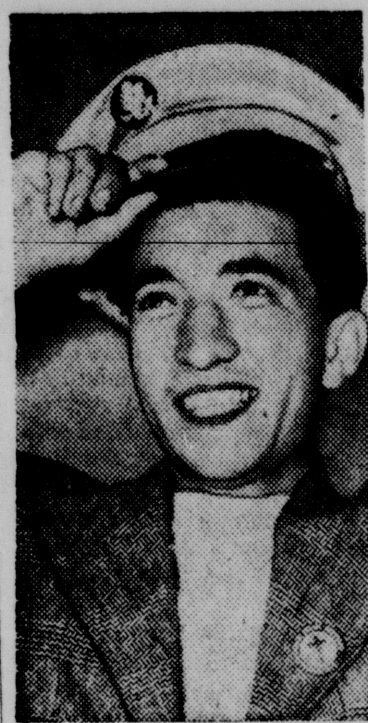

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y., July 8 (AP)—Sheba was back in her kennel today, her master was back on duty, and Plattsburgh Air Force Base settled into normal routine.

The big German shepherd sentry dog came quietly out of a patch of woods on the base late last night in answer to the calls of her handler, Airman 3.C. Matthew Barsley of Pawtucket, R.I., who had been summoned back from home leave.

Sheba refused to eat after Barsley left for home last Sunday. On Thursday, she slipped from her collar while being taken to a veterinarian.

Hundreds of airmen were thrown into the search for the dog, which is trained to attack anyone who flees. But Sheba eluded them all.

Many Bills Still Face Congress

He will live in Erie, Pa., with another uncle.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Congress is shooting for adjournment in two to four weeks, and there are still many important bills remaining for consideration.

Not all of these will be passed, in all probability, but House and Senate leaders expect to send most of them to President Eisenhower's desk before they get out of town.

House leaders are saying they expect the session to wind up July 28 or Aug. 4. The latter date is just a week before the Democratic National Convention convenes in Chicago.

Senate sources, for once, appear a bit more optimistic; some said the windup could come by July 21. Usually, it is the Senate which holds up adjournment.

The House eased Senate problems last Thursday by scuttling the school construction bill. But, even with that dropped from the program, these major bills remain:

School Aid Bill Killed

A foreign aid money bill. This is likely to cause hot debate in both branches. The House Appropriations Committee has slashed it to $3,665,000,000, far below the $4,900,000,000 asked by Eisenhower. The authorization bill which sets the foreign aid ceiling is not yet through Congress, but a compromise agreement was reached on a $4,014,000,000 figure Friday by a Senate-House Conference Committee.

A Social Security bill. The House passed this last year, lowering the retirement age for women to 62 and establishing new payments for persons totally disabled at age 50 or higher. The Senate Finance Committee knocked out most of these benefits, but Democratic leaders have been working strenuously on a compromise to try to restore them on the floor, and now believe they have one.

Supplemented Money Bills

A $1,555,000,000 supplemental appropriations bill; most of this money is for military construction at posts and bases throughout the nation, but there are funds for numerous government agencies.

Another supplemental money bill with funds for the Atomic Energy Commission.

An omnibus housing bill. This has passed the Senate, but now is tied up in the House Rules Committee in a fight over public housing provisions.

The House has scheduled action on the two big money bills—foreign aid and the supplemental measure—in the week ahead.

Trimmed Ankle Contest Won By Woman, Age 81

HEREFORD, England, July 8 (AP)—The judge, Dr. Cyril Francis, studied 24 pairs of trim ankles that twinkled beneath a theater curtain in an ankle-judging contest.

"That's the prettiest pair," he finally announced, "ring up the curtain and let's see who owns them."

The curtain went all the way up revealing 24 smiling females ranging upward in age from 19. The winning pair of ankles belonged to Mrs. Gertrude Pritchard—age 81.

Convoy Breaks Trap

ALGIERS, July 8 (AP)—French authorities reported today a convoy had fought its way out of an ambush 170 miles south of Algiers, killing eight Nationalist rebels.

In West Virginia, a reorganization of their party lineup has given the GOP strategists hopes of defeating Democratic Gov. William C. Marland with former Sen. Chapman Revercomb in the race to fill the seat held by the late Democratic Sen. Kilgore.

With former Sen. Tydings as their nominee, Democrats believe they may push out Republican Sen. Butler in Maryland.

Asian Nation Seen Staying In West Camp

Vice President Tells Chiang Ike Opposes Peiping Recognition

BANGKOK, Thailand, Monday, July 9 (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon held a midnight airport conference with Thai leaders today, then told newsmen he feels Thailand is sticking to her pro-West stand.

The vice president, on a whirlwind tour of the Far East, arrived from Formosa on his homeward flight. His next stop is Karachi, Pakistan.

Before he left Taipei, Nixon branded as false any suggestion President Eisenhower had backed down on his opposition to recognizing Red China and seating it in the United Nations.

Nixon is cutting his stops short en route because a flat tire on his special plane delayed the Formosa departure 5½ hours.

He met Premier Pibulsonggram and Foreign Minister Prince Wan Waihayakon at Don Muang Airport.

Conferred With Chiang

Afterward he voiced to reporters his confidence in Thailand's position.

He also said his talks in Taipei with President Chiang Kai-shek convinced him Nationalist China would not accept Red China's bid to come to Peiping to talk about Formosa's future.

Nixon said he did not think Asia's people would accept the new look of the Russians until they were satisfied Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev and his followers have quit acting like Stalin.

Nixon and the party departed for Karachi 2½ hours after they landed on this Gulf of Siam plain from Formosa.

Thai Achievements Praised

Nixon and his party were greeted at the Bangkok airport by the Premier, the foreign minister and U.S. Ambassador Max Bishop.

A statement was issued by the U.S. Embassy before Nixon's arrival, quoting him as praising the achievements of Thailand.

"The accomplishments and progress made by the free peoples of Asia deserve to be more fully reported and acclaimed everywhere," the Nixon statement said.

"On my part, I can assure you that the American people are glad that the United States has been able to be, in small measure, of some assistance to Thailand's forward movement."

Missing Tot Found Unharmed By Airmen

MISSION, Tex., July 8 (AP)—Two-year-old Ann Marie Dickinson, who disappeared while playing in the yard of her grandparents here last night, was found unharmed about 2:15 a.m. today.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Tom Wingert said the child was found asleep on a cowpath about 1½ miles from her grandparents' home. Wingert said she apparently wandered off.

The little girl was taken to a hospital where she was reported in good shape except for bruises and scratches.

The tot was found by airmen from Moore Air Force Base who were among 400 men searching the area.

Italian Author Dies

FLORENCE, Italy, July 8 (AP)—Giovanni Papini, noted Italian author whose "Life of Christ" was a best seller in the early 1920s, died today after a long illness. He was 75.

No Tension Or Bitterness Steelworkers Taking Walkout In Stride

McKEESPORT, Pa., July 8 (AP)—

A steelworker's wife thoughtfully counts the coins she has been hiding in a cream pitcher, and drops in another 50-cent piece.

Next door, a striker is on the telephone. "How about painting your house again while the strike's on? Sure, same deal — $100. I'll start right away."

In the police station, lines of men are registering for free "surplus commodities" — butter, powdered milk, cheese, and shortening. The rations won't become available until Aug. 1 but nearly 1,000 signed up the day the depot opened.

Things are quiet in front of the main gate of U.S. Steel's tube plant . . . only token picketing . . . no card game today . . . just groups of men standing around talking.

The quiet is what impresses you most today about McKeesport, a typical steel mill city of 55,000 near Pittsburgh. There is no tension, no high emotion, no bitterness.

Men are drawing the last paychecks they will get for some time. How long?

"This could be a long one," they say. The consensus is that it will be three or four weeks, but it's only a guess.

"Most of the boys are in good shape, financially, for that long," says Christy Filotel, an electrician who is one of the three pickets.

"But after that, it's going to start hurting."

How do they feel about the strike?

You get all shades of opinion, pro, con and in the middle. There is no discernible pattern of feeling along the lines of age, seniority, job classification or anything else.

The issue they all mention is that problem of the length of the proposed contract.

Industry offered a four-year, four-month, no-strike contract. The United Steel Workers Union refused. Its leaders have not specified a time limit that would be agreeable to them.

Erik Molnar, minister of justice, said 11,398 persons were released from prison following investigations by a rehabilitation commission. But the minister warned that the program of political rehabilitation would end soon, and those sentenced on justifiable grounds could not expect mercy.

Man Hurlled To Death From Roller Coaster

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J., July 8 (AP)—A 25-year-old Miami, Florida, man stood up in a rocketing roller coaster car early today and was hurled to his death on the pavement 50 feet below.

The cries of Marion Leon Yohan as he was ejected into space were drowned out by the usual screams of girl riders and the rattle of the car as it sped around a curve after the deepest dip.

Robert Yohan of Lodi, N.J., was in the car with his brother at Palisades Amusement Park atop the Hudson River cliffs opposite Manhattan.

Cliffside Park Police said Yohan stood up despite several warning signs for riders to stay strapped in their seats.

Red Island Shelled

HONG KONG, July 8 (AP)—Peiping radio said today one woman was killed and five persons injured when Nationalist Chinese artillery based on Quemoy shelled Howpao village on Hsiao-tung Island off the Fukien coast yesterday.

Crash Blame Conclusions "Premature"

CAB Chief Rejects Aide's Testimony TWA Responsible

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., July 8 (AP)—Chairman James R. Durfee of the Civil Aeronautics Board today said any conclusions as to responsibility in the Grand Canyon air catastrophe "are decidedly premature at this time."

Durfee, here with a special House Commerce subcommittee to inspect the wreckage site of the TWA and United Airlines, repudiated testimony given yesterday by the CAB's chief investigator, William K. Andrews, at the subcommittee hearing in Las Vegas.

Andrews had said yesterday that "TWA had full responsibility for maintaining separation" between the planes after changing its flight plan. The two planes collided over Grand Canyon June 30, killing 128 persons.

Legislators Visit Scene

Five members of the Air Traffic Control subcommittee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), visited the crash scene this morning. They and Durfee flew in helicopters from Grand Canyon Airport to the north rim of the canyon. There they saw the wreckage sites, about a mile and a half away.

Durfee told newsmen that the conflicting testimony by Andrews and Oscar Bakke, CAB deputy director of safety regulations, was "due to the compelling urgency" of the hearing. He said it was "difficult to adequately gather, correlate and present material," in the short space of time since the crash.

"Equal Responsibility"

But he upheld Bakke, who said that the United Air Lines pilot had "equal responsibility" for looking out for another plane.

Durfee said that the CAB would push its investigation, hoping to complete it within two weeks. He said a public hearing to determine the cause officially will be held as soon as possible. He did not indicate the place.

Rep. Harris remained aloof from the CAB controversy, saying: "The facts have to speak for themselves. Any opinions and conclusions at this point of course, are highly speculative."

Taber Expected To Reverse Role

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.), long famed for money-cutting efforts, may reverse his role and push for bigger foreign aid funds than were approved by the House Appropriations Committee.

But Rep. Passman (D-La.) voiced confidence the House would back the committee decision to chop foreign aid $1,400,000,000 below the almost five billion dollars sought by President Eisenhower.

The congressman spoke in separate interviews as the aid program headed for another expected battle in the House, perhaps late tomorrow.

The bulk of the committee slash—more than $1,200,000,000—was from the three billion dollars Eisenhower wanted for military aid to non-Communist countries.

Taber, top Republican on the pursestrings group, said, "I am not satisfied with the figure on the military. I think it has been cut too deep."

With informal discussions still under way among different groups on Capitol Hill, Taber said he would not be able to disclose until tomorrow what funds—restoring move he may make.

Escaped Sentry Dog Heeds Master's Call

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y., July 8 (AP)—Sheba was back in her kennel today, her master was back on duty, and Plattsburgh Air Force Base settled into normal routine.

The big German shepherd sentry dog came quietly out of a patch of woods on the base late last night in answer to the calls of her handler, Airman 3.C. Matthews of Pawtucket, R.I., who had been summoned back from home leave.

Sheba refused to eat after Matthews left for home last Sunday. On Thursday, she slipped from her collar while being taken to a veterinarian.

Hundreds of airmen were thrown into the search for the dog, which is trained to attack anyone who flees. But Sheba eluded them all.

Many Bills Still Face Congress

Adjournment In Two To Four Weeks Planned

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Congress is shooting for adjournment in two to four weeks, and there are still many important bills remaining for consideration.

Not all of these will be passed, in all probability, but House and Senate leaders expect to send most of them to President Eisenhower's desk before they get out of town.

House leaders are saying they expect the session to wind up July 28 or Aug. 4. The latter date is just a week before the Democratic National Convention convenes in Chicago.

Senate sources, for once, appear a bit more optimistic; some said the windup could come by July 21. Usually, it is the Senate which holds up adjournment.

School Aid Bill Killed

The House eased Senate problems last Thursday by scuttling the school construction bill. But, even with that dropped from the program, these major bills remain:

A foreign aid money bill. This is likely to cause hot debate in both branches. The House Appropriations Committee has slashed it to $3,665,000,000, far below the $4,900,000,000 asked by Eisenhower. The authorization bill which sets the foreign aid ceiling is not yet through Congress, but a compromise agreement was reached on a $4,014,000,000 figure Friday by a Senate-House Conference Committee.

A Social Security bill. The House passed this last year, lowering the retirement age for women to 62 and establishing new payments for persons totally disabled at age 50 or higher. The Senate Finance Committee knocked out most of these benefits, but Democratic leaders have been working strenuously on a compromise to try to restore them on the floor, and now believe they have one.

Supplemental Money Bills

A $1,555,000,000 supplemental appropriations bill; most of this money is for military construction at posts and bases throughout the nation, but there are funds for numerous government agencies.

Another supplemental money bill with funds for the Atomic Energy Commission.

An omnibus housing bill. This has passed the Senate, but now is tied up in the House Rules Committee in a fight over public housing provisions.

The House has scheduled action on the two big money bills—foreign aid and the supplemental measure—in the week ahead.

Trimmed Ankle Contest Won By Woman, Age 81

HEREFORD, England, July 8 (AP)—The judge, Dr. Cyril Francis, studied 24 pairs of trim ankles that twinkled beneath a theater curtain in an ankle-judging contest.

"That's the prettiest pair," he finally announced, "ring up the curtain and let's see who owns them."

The curtain went all the way up revealing 24 smiling females ranging upward in age from 19. The winning pair of ankles belonged to Mrs. Gertrude Pritchard—age 81.

Convoy Breaks Trap

ALGIERS, July 8 (AP)—French authorities reported today a convoy had fought its way out of an ambush 170 miles south of Algiers, killing eight Nationalist rebels.

No Tension Or Bitterness Steelworkers Taking Walkout In Stride

MCKEESPORT, Pa., July 8 (AP)—A steelworker's wife thoughtfully counts the coins she has been hiding in a cream pitcher, and drops in another 50-cent piece.

Next door, a striker is on the telephone. "How about painting your house again while the strike's on? Sure, same deal—$100. I'll start right away."

In the police station, lines of men are registering for free "surplus commodities"—butter, powdered milk, cheese, and shortening. The rations won't become available until Aug. 1 but nearly 1,000 signed up the day the depot opened.

Things are quiet in front of the main gate of U.S. Steel's tube plant . . . only token picketing . . . no card game today . . . just groups of men standing around talking.

The quiet is what impresses you most today about McKeesport, a typical steel mill city of 55,000 near Pittsburgh. There is no tension, no high emotion, no bitterness.

Men are drawing the last paycheck they will get for some time. How long?

"This could be a long one," they say. The consensus is that it will be three or four weeks, but it's only a guess.

"Most of the boys are in good shape, financially, for that long," says Christy Filot, an electrician who is one of the three pickets.

"But after that, it's going to start hurting."

How do they feel about the strike?

Asian Nation Seen Staying In West Camp

Vice President Tells Chiang Ike Opposes Peiping Recognition

BANGKOK, Thailand, Monday, July 9 (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon held a midnight airport conference with Thai leaders today, then told newsmen he feels Thailand is sticking to her pro-West stand.

The vice president, on a whirlwind tour of the Far East, arrived from Formosa on his homeward flight. His next stop is Karachi, Pakistan.

Before he left Taipei, Nixon branded as false any suggestion President Eisenhower had backed down on his opposition to recognizing Red China and seating it in the United Nations.

Nixon is cutting his stops short en route because a flat tire on his special plane delayed the Formosa departure 5½ hours.

He met Premier Pibulsonggram and Foreign Minister Prince Wan Waitayakon at Don Muang Airport.

Conferred With Chiang

Afterward he voiced to reporters his confidence in Thailand's position.

He also said his talks in Taipei with President Chiang Kai-shek convinced him Nationalist China would not accept Red China's bid to come to Peiping to talk about Formosa's future.

Nixon said he did not think Asia's people would accept the new look of the Russians until they were satisfied Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev and his followers have quit acting like Stalin.

Nixon and the party departed for Karachi 2½ hours after they landed on this Gulf of Siam plain from Formosa.

Thai Achievements Praised

Nixon and his party were greeted at the Bangkok airport by the Premier, the foreign minister and U.S. Ambassador Max Bishop.

A statement was issued by the U.S. Embassy before Nixon's arrival, quoting him as praising the achievements of Thailand.

"The accomplishments and progress made by the free peoples of Asia deserve to be more fully reported and acclaimed everywhere," the Nixon statement said.

"On my part, I can assure you that the American people are glad that the United States has been able to be, in small measure, of some assistance to Thailand's forward movement."

Missing Tot Found Unharmed By Airmen

MISSION, Tex., July 8 (AP)—Two-year-old Ann Marie Dickinson, who disappeared while playing in the yard of her grandparents here last night, was found unharmed about 2:15 a.m. today.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Tom Wingert said the child was found asleep on a cowpath about 1½ miles from her grandparents' home. Wingert said she apparently wandered off.

The little girl was taken to a hospital where she was reported in good shape except for bruises and scratches.

The tot was found by airmen from Moore Air Force Base who were among 400 men searching the area.

Churchill Opposed Allied Landings In South France

LONDON, Monday, July 9 (AP)—The Allied landings in the south of France during World War II were carried out on American insistence over the objections of Winston Churchill.

This was disclosed in an official British history of the war, "Grand Strategy, August 1943-September 1944," out today.

Churchill, the book says, felt it was a "major strategic and political error," to draw troops from the Italian front for the French operations known as Anvil. Allied troops based in Italy landed between Toulon and Cannes on Aug. 15, 1944, and within a month linked up with Gen. Eisenhower's main forces in the north.

The British history said that on July 1, 1944, Churchill sent this telegram to President Roosevelt:

"The splitting up of the campaign in the Mediterranean into two operations, neither of which can do anything decisive is, in my humble and respectful opinion, the first major strategic and political error for which we two have to be responsible.

... What can I do, Mr. President, when your chiefs of staff insist on casting aside our Italian offensive campaign, with all its dazzling possibilities, relieving Hitler of all his anxieties in the Po Basin, and when we are to see the integral life of this campaign drained off into the Rhone Valley in the belief that it will in several months carry effective help to Eisenhower so far away in the north?

"If you still press upon us the directive of your chiefs of staff to withdraw so many of your forces from the Italian campaign and leave all our hopes there dashed to the ground, His Majesty's government, on advice of their chiefs of staff, must enter a solemn protest.

"I need scarcely say we shall do our best to make a success of anything that is undertaken..."

Second Man Sought In Baltimore Holdup

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP)—Police still were looking today for a second suspect and $340 in a Friday holdup.

Isaac Jacobs, 22-year-old Negro, was arrested at the scene of the robbery of a rental office and $840 also was found.

But the rental office reported $1,180 was taken and police believe a second man served as a lookout.

They picked up Leroy Edwards, 42-year-old Negro of Philadelphia, after a cops and robber show Friday. But Edwards was cleared and released yesterday after being fined $10 for riding illegally on a train.

A Baltimore police alert sent 100 Philadelphia policemen on a search of a train. They found nobody. Later, on a return alert, Baltimore police took Edwards off a train.

Auto Collision Fatal To Four

ELKTON, Md., July 8 (AP)—Four persons were killed and three others injured early today when an automobile leaving a drive-in theater collided with another car on U.S. Route 40.

Three of the victims were from a family of five which had just left the theater. State Police reported. The fourth was a passenger in the other car.

Mrs. Minnie L. Thompson, 23, of Port Deposit, Md., died at Wilmington, Del., General Hospital where she was taken after the crash.

Kathy Lynn Thompson, her 8-year old daughter, was killed outright and a 19-month-old son, George, died at Union Hospital here.

George M. Thompson, 33, the husband and father, was reported in critical condition at Union Hospital with a compound fracture of the left leg, a mangled left foot and fractures of the right hip and left arm. A second daughter, Gale, 5, was being treated for a fractured left leg and concussion. Her condition was reported satisfactory.

The other victim was Paul Francis Boyles, 26, of Elkton, passenger in a car driven by Karl L. Pitt, 24, of Elkton. Pitt was reported in serious condition with severe lacerations, contusions and possible internal injuries.

He was thrown from his car, which Trooper Paul Dillow said travelled 145 feet from the point of impact.

Dillow said the Thompson car was making a right turn into the eastbound lane of U.S. 40 when the collision occurred with the Pitt car, also eastbound. The Thompson car travelled 65 feet sideways.

First Md. Polio Death Of Year Is Reported

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP)—A 17-year-old Talbot County girl, stricken by polio on June 24, died today at City Hospitals.

The victim was Mary A. Schultz of St. Michaels, one of 15 children of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schultz. She had been in an iron lung since her admission to the hospital June 28.

The death was the first in Maryland this year and the first from Talbot County in more than 20 years.

American-Born Baronet Meets Queen; Trip Costly

NEWTON-STEWART, Scotland, July 8 (AP)—Sir Adrian Dunbar, the American handyman who inherited an ancient Scottish baronetcy, met Queen Elizabeth yesterday for the first time. But his excursion to Edinburgh for a royal lawn party at Holyrood proved a costly trip.

During a stopover in Glasgow for dinner on the way to his estate here, thieves broke into his car. They stole a suitcase containing jewels belonging to Lady Dunbar worth 1,000 pounds (2,800 dollars) and a new wardrobe Sir Adrian had bought for himself for a trip to the United States this fall.

When the American-born 12th baronet of Dunbar arrived at his ancestral estate he found vandals had forced entry into the house and damaged some marble works. "I can't imagine who would want to do it," said the 63-year-old nobleman who was a handyman at Upper Fairmount, Md., when he inherited the Scottish title and ancient estate here that includes 15 tenant farms.

Talbot County Area Hit By Cloudburst

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP)—A tremendous cloudburst dumped 3.61 inches of rain on the Royal Oak area of Talbot County in slightly over an hour this afternoon, the U. S. Weather Bureau reported.

Howard H. Engelbrecht, state climatologist, said there was no immediate indication whether it was a record but that rainfall intensity curves for the area indicated such a downpour would occur not more than once in a hundred years in that section.

Trade With Red Nations On Rise

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. July 8 (AP)—Trade between Communist and non-Communist countries is on the increase, the U.N. reported today in its annual world economic survey.

This includes trade with Red China even though a U.N. embargo is still on the books banning shipment of strategic materials to the Chinese mainland.

The United States and Canada—dealt with as a unit—remained one of the few major non-Communist areas which failed to show any substantial trade with the Communists. Even here some gains were reported.

The big increases were in western Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

"During the first half of 1955," the report said, "the trade of the centrally planned economies with the rest of the world increased by 15 per cent compared with the same period of 1954."

In U.N. terminology "centrally planned economies" means those of the Communist countries.

Poultry Trends Will Be Aired At Convention

Annual W. Va. Event Set For Moorefield

MOOREFIELD — How poultry statistics can be used by producers will be explained at the annual West Virginia Poultry Convention in this Hardy County center of the broiler industry August 1 through 3.

Harold M. Hyre, associate poultry husbandman at West Virginia University and publicity chairman for the three-day convention, said that the long-time outlook as well as what's ahead in 1957 for the poultry industry will be aired.

"Poultrymen will be in a position to make wiser decisions by keeping abreast with the times and by knowing the facts with regard to production and consumption of their products," Hyre emphasized.

Producers are concerned about sources of good stock for layers and broilers. This topic will be discussed during the convention.

"There are many poultry tests being conducted throughout the country today," said Hyre. "Anyone who can evaluate the results of these tests can locate the leading strain of poultry. Every poultryman should know how to use the results of these tests."

Poultrymen also are interested in promoting the consumption of their products. Programs already are in progress for this purpose. What is being done and the way in which the producers can help will be a part of the convention program, handled by men who are nationally-known in this field.

Other subjects for discussion will include mandatory poultry inspection; poultry housing, including pole shelters for turkeys; poultry diseases and merchandising.

"The educational part of the convention will be packed full of the latest trends in our great poultry industry," Hyre summarized.

Engineers Place Control Markers Near Moorefield

MOOREFIELD—A crew of 15 engineers with the US Coast and Geodetic Survey under the direction of John C. Childs are working in Hardy and nearby counties and will be here for the next month or so.

The engineers are establishing control markers and monuments, triangulating distances and elevation and establishing latitude and longitude of the various markers.

The engineers are working in the Mathias section this week.

Steel towers are erected out in the mountainous areas to enable the engineers to see lights from one tower to another and the sighting is done at night. The delicate instruments used in the triangulation can establish an angle to one tenth of a degree.

Another crew of engineers are headquartered in Elkins and both crews will survey nearly half the state. The local crew of engineers is staying up the North Fork, mostly in house trailers and some in tents. Power wagons are used to haul equipment, cement for the monuments and tools up to the rugged terrain where the monuments are placed.

Closest monument to Moorefield is at Moorefield Municipal Airport. The elevation at the marker is 980 feet above sea level.

When using a small craft, take the precaution to see that it's seaworthy. A boat rows and a canoe paddles easier and is safer if it isn't full of water.

Poultry Trends Will Be Aired At Convention

Annual W.Va. Event
Set For Moorefield

MOOREFIELD — How poultry statistics can be used by producers will be explained at the annual West Virginia Poultry Convention in this Hardy County center of the broiler industry August 1 through 3.

Harold M. Hyre, associate poultry husbandman at West Virginia University and publicity chairman for the three-day convention, said that the long-time outlook as well as what's ahead in 1957 for the poultry industry will be aired.

"Poultrymen will be in a position to make wiser decisions by keeping abreast with the times and by knowing the facts with regard to production and consumption of their products," Hyre emphasized.

Producers are concerned about sources of good stock for layers and broilers. This topic will be discussed during the convention.

"There are many poultry tests being conducted throughout the country today," said Hyre. "Anyone who can evaluate the results of these tests can locate the leading strain of poultry. Every poultryman should know how to use the results of these tests."

Poultrymen also are interested in promoting the consumption of their products. Programs already are in progress for this purpose.

What is being done and the way in which the producers can help will be a part of the convention program, handled by men who are nationally-known in this field.

Other subjects for discussion will include mandatory poultry inspection; poultry housing, including pole shelters for turkeys; poultry diseases and merchandising.

"The educational part of the convention will be packed full of the latest trends in our great poultry industry," Hyre summarized.

Services were conducted yesterday at the Rogers Funeral Home by Rev. John D. MacLeod, pastor of Keyser Presbyterian Church.

The body was taken to Detroit for additional services. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery there.

Services were conducted yesterday at 2 p. m. at the Kessel EUB Church by Rev. Lester Goldice, retired pastor. Interment was in the Kessel Cemetery.

Engineers Place Control Markers Near Moorefield

MOOREFIELD—A crew of 15 engineers with the US Coast and Geodetic Survey under the direction of John C. Childs are working in Hardy and nearby counties and will be here for the next month or so.

The engineers are establishing control markers and monuments, triangulating distances and elevation and establishing latitude and longitude of the various markers.

The engineers are working in the Mathias section this week.

Steel towers are erected out in the mountainous areas to enable the engineers to see lights from one tower to another and the sighting is done at night. The delicate instruments used in the triangulation can establish an angle to one tenth of a degree.

Another crew of engineers are headquartered in Elkins and both crews will survey nearly half the state. The local crew of engineers is staying up the North Fork, mostly in house trailers and some in tents. Power wagons are used to haul equipment, cement for the monuments and tools up to the rugged terrain where the monuments are placed.

Closest monument to Moorefield is at Moorefield Municipal Airport. The elevation at the marker is 980 feet above sea level.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (INS)—With British Diana Dors the most discussed actress in Hollywood since Marilyn Monroe departed, and every studio in town bidding for her after she finishes "I Married A Woman" with George Gobel—who gets her?

Donna Reed and Tony Owen have snagged Diana for their independent company, Todon, to star in "The Long Haul" back in her home town, London. Columbia will release the picture which is a sexy drama about a girl who works in a roadside cafe and a truck driver. Know who they want for the truck driver? Marlon Brando.

Maxwell Setton is the producer and Kenneth Hughes the director.

Joan Crawford, who is off to New York and London Thursday, has a date Wednesday to discuss with Robert Aldrich "The Monkey Doll." Jaik Rosenstein's book.

It's the story of a columnist, a composite picture of three famous gossip writers.

"I haven't seen the script yet," Joan told me, "but if it's as good as it sounds I'll do it. Bob Aldrich is in New York, and I won't get a chance to talk to him until tomorrow when he returns."

The deal is very close to signing for Dean Martin to co-star in "10,000 Bedrooms" for Joe Pasternak. Years ago, Joe made the first test of Dean, before Dean and Jerry Lewis became popular comedians. Richard Thorpe, who is directing the epic, leaves soon for Italy to find four beautiful Italian girls.

Joe, whose book "Easy The Hard Way" has been smuggled behind the Iron Curtain, has had an offer from Budapest to have it published in Hungary, and he'll accept. He has many friends and relatives living there who will enjoy reading about the Hungarian lad who made good.

The talk around Las Vegas is that Martha Raye has resumed her romance with Al Riddle, a dealer at the Sahara where Martha is entertaining.

After Riddle's name was mentioned with Martha's he went east to see her. Then, for a time, things cooled off. Now he's escorting her about the Nevada resort and seems to be head man in her life again.

A visitor on the set of "Anastasia" in London was Yul Brynner's 17-year-old step-sister, Catherine Brynner. She has been in London majoring in languages and had never seen her brother on the stage or screen.

Her mother was Catherine Kornakova, one of the stars of the Moscow Arts Theatre 15 years ago, and young Catherine will play a bit part in "Anastasia" with Yul. She admits she would like to return to Hollywood with him, and I'm told she has all of his charm and vivaciousness, plus a girlish beauty. "And," says my correspondent, "if she gets to Hollywood she will be worth watching."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Teddy Hayes, who was Virginia Howard, one of the beautiful Howard sisters, is critically ill in St. Mary's Hospital in Galveston, Texas.

Ben Kehane, vice president of Columbia, has been very sick with a high temperature, as a result of two infected teeth which he had extracted.

Kim Novak gets in Tuesday after having been away since April. In Denver, TV station Kim dedicated its program all day to her.

Arthur Freed's secretary, Helen Wendt, quietly married agent Miles Heur a few weeks ago.

Joseph Schenck, an old friend of Lewis had a party of ten. Bobbe and Bill Perlberg, Greg Bautzer and his beautiful bride, Noonie Busse, Joe Hall, Sybil and Harry Brand and this writer.

Harry Karl escorted Eunice Bonitate who looks enough like Marie McDonald to be her twin.

That's all today. See you tomorrow. (Copyright 1956, By INS)

It's important, that first impression you make. The wrong one risks losing out before you start with someone you might like.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Charm At First Sight

How would you feel if you knew people said about you, "She's nice when you get to know her"? Wouldn't you be less likely to be happy about the compliment than disturbed because something uncomfortable is implied?

The remark does suggest that you are nice in spite of something. What is it? An unattractive appearance, a forbidding manner, an abrupt way of speaking?

Perhaps first impressions should not count as much as they do, because they can't always be counted on. But since they do register so definitely, to make a good first impression is certainly convenient as well as very much worthwhile. It's a short cut to pleasant dealings in casual contacts, and you're on your way at once to good acquaintance or friendship if you want it that way. Only a few people, after all, will go to the trouble of getting to know you well enough to correct a bad first impression. An unattractive appearance is unfavorable enough to prevent many from ever discovering that you have riches of character, and if you're cold and unsmiling and short-spoken you drive people away.

It isn't easy to stand off and look at yourself with another's eyes; but try to, as critically as you can. Are you the kind of person you yourself would instantly like to please? You're far more likely to be if you've made the most of the way you do look. The eye is the first judge, and the care it takes to look good bespeaks high standards. And you're a person who brings out the best in others if you look, act, and sound pleasant.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

WASHINGTON, July 8—(INS)—Through the courtesy of Corn Products Inc., believed to be makers of corn products, Attorney General Herbert Brownell announced to the nation that the government is suing General Motors. Revenuers caught GM red-handed, making busses.

At least, it sounded something like that. I was too busy watching Martha Rountree and her covey of rotating Washington correspondents but not one of the boys rotated. All the advance publicity on the new TV show on which Brownell announced a major Eisenhower administration policy and perhaps election year strategem told us to be on the lookout for Miss Rountree's brilliant band of "rotating correspondents."

The brethren couldn't move off a dime. They stood or sat there still as stones to the plain disappointment and what might have been the despair of that happy, laughing girl who with another gay, my friend Lawrence Spivak, put across "Meet The Press" years ago.

The happiness pair fissioned with muted snarls and radioactive fall-out some time back. Miss Rountree's return to the air, with talent? Will Brownell now be barred from "Meet The Press"? Will politicians in time be afraid to accept the Corn Products bid for fear of offending Revere Copper or Pan Am? Will they go off somewhere with their public announcements and never make them known? Can Frank Folsom invent a rotating mike for rotating questions? Will Willie Mays return to baseball?

How about all those other TV political inquiries which originate from the capital? What can they do to match Miss Rountree's presently anchored but soon-to-be-

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (INS)—dealer at the Sahara where Mar-
With British Diana Dors the most discussed actress in Hollywood since Marilyn Monroe departed, and every studio in town bidding for her after she finishes "I Married A Woman" with George Gobel
—who gets her?

Donna Reed and Tony Owen have snagged Diana for their independent company, Todon, to star in "The Long Haul" back in her home town, London. Columbia will release the picture which is a sexy drama about a girl who works in a roadside cafe and a truck driver.
Know who they want for the truck driver? Marlon Brando.

Maxwell Setton is the producer and Kenneth Hughes the director.

Joan Crawford, who is off to New York and London Thursday, has a date Wednesday to discuss with Robert Aldrich "The Monkey Doll." Jaik Rosenstein's book.

It's the story of a columnist, a composite picture of three famous gossip writers.

"I haven't seen the script yet," Joan told me, "but if it's as good as it sounds I'll do it. Bob Aldrich is in New York, and I won't get a chance to talk to him until tomorrow when he returns."

The deal is very close to signing for Dean Martin to co-star in "10, 000 Bedrooms" for Joe Pasternak.
Years ago, Joe made the first test of Dean, before Dean and Jerry Lewis became popular comedians. Richard Thorpe, who is directing the epic, leaves soon for Italy to find four beautiful Italian girls.

Joe, whose book "Easy The Hard Way" has been smuggled behind the Iron Curtain, has had an offer from Budapest to have it published in Hungary, and he'll accept.
He has many friends and relatives living there who will enjoy reading about the Hungarian lad who made good.

The talk around Las Vegas is that Martha Raye has resumed her romance with Al Riddle, a

After Riddle's name was mentioned with Martha's he went east to see her. Then, for a time, things cooled off. Now he's escorting her about the Nevada resort and seems to be head man in her life again.

A visitor on the set of "Anasta-sia" in London was Yul Brynner's
17-year-old step-sister, Catherine Brynner. She has been in London majoring in languages and had never seen her brother on the stage or screen.

Her mother was Catherine Korn-akova, one of the stars of the Moscow Arts Theatre 15 years ago, and young Catherine will play a bit part in "Anastasia" with Yul. She admits she would like to return to Hollywood with him, and I'm told she has all of his charm and vivaciousness, plus a girlish beauty.

"And," says my correspondent,
"if she gets to Hollywood she will be worth watching."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Teddy Hayes, who was Virginia Howard, one of the beautiful Howard sisters, is critically ill in St. Mary's Hospital in Galveston, Texas.

Ben Kehane, vice president of Columbia, has been very sick with a high temperature, as a result of two infected teeth which he had extracted.

Kim Novak gets in Tuesday after having been away since April. In Denver, TV station Kim dedicated its program all day to her.

Arthur Freed's secretary, Helen Wendt, quietly married agent
Miles Heur a few weeks ago.

Joseph Schenck, an old friend of Lewis had a party of ten. Bobbe and Bill Perlberg, Greg Bautzer and his beautiful bride, Noonie
Busse, Joe Hall, Sybil and Harry
Brand and this writer.

Harry Karl escorted Eunice Bo-rolate who looks enough like Marie McDonald to be her twin.

That's all today. See you tomorrow. (Copyright 1956, By INS)

It's important, that first impression you make. The wrong one risks losing out before you start with someone you might like.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Charm At First Sight

How would you feel if you knew people said about you, "She's nice when you get to know her"? Wouldn't you be less likely to be happy about the compliment than disturbed because something uncomplimentary is implied?

The remark does suggest that you are nice in spite of something.
What is it? An unattractive appearance, a forbidding manner, an abrupt way of speaking?

Perhaps first impressions should not count as much as they do, because they can't always be counted on. But since they do register so definitely, to make a good first impression is certainly convenient as well as very much worthwhile. It's a short cut to pleasant dealings in casual contacts, and you're on your way at once to good acquaintance or friendship if you want it that way. Only a few people, after all, will go to the trouble of getting to know you well enough to correct a bad first impression. An unattractive appearance is unfavorable enough to prevent many from ever discovering that you have riches of character, and if you're cold and unsmiling and short-spoken you drive people away.

It isn't easy to stand off and look at yourself with another's eyes; but try to, as critically as you can. Are you the kind of person you yourself would instantly like to please? You're far more likely to be if you've made the most of the way you do look. The eye is the first judge, and the care it takes to look good bespeaks high standards. And you're a person who brings out the best in others if you look, act, and sound pleasant and interested, if you're responsive and attentive — it's only natural to warm to a charming manner.

member as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of WASHINGTON, July 8 (INS)—dozens of Washington correspond-

Through the courtesy of Corn-

General Herbert Brownell announced to the nation that the handed, making busses.

At least, it sounded something like that. I was too busy watching Martha Rountree and her covey of rotating Washington correspondrotated. All the advance publicity on the new TV show on which Brownell announced a major Eisen-

Miss Rountree's brilliant band of pointment and what might have

A Revealing Gesture By East Germany

Communist government of East Germany announces with pride that it has released more than 19,000 persons from prison in the last few weeks. It does not reveal how many more remain locked up.

The typical Communist procedure is to release statistics in such a manner that much of their meaning is hidden, as when Moscow announced how many men it was releasing from the armed forces but avoided disclosing how large those forces were before or after the cuts. In this latest incident, however, the Communist figures are revealing.

The United States has nearly 10 times East Germany's population. In 1954, the last year for which figures are available, the number of persons in all state and federal prisons and reformatories in the United States was 182,051. If this country were to release as many proportionately as East Germany, the figure would come to 190,000, leaving the nation's penal institutions empty. In fact, it would be necessary to arrest a few thousand before it would be possible to release that number.

Has East Germany emptied its prisons and left every criminal in the land free to prey on the population? Hardly. The clear implication is that the more than 19,000 released—more proportionately than the entire prison population of the United States—are persons who should not have been in prison in the first place.

The East German regime is admitting "errors." After all, anybody can make mistakes, and they were naturally misled by the "cult of personality" and by the deviationism of some officials and judges who are now being severely slapped on the wrist.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The President's Illness

A Chinese friend of mine, who had been educated at Columbia University in the 1880s and had achieved a high estate in his own country, discovered that the favorite child of his old age was down with the measles. He thereupon sent for all the doctors he could think of, those who practiced ancient Chinese herbal medicine, those who had been educated in Germany or the United States. Each one examined the child and wrote a prescription. As my friend was both famous and wealthy, none dared to refuse his request; so they all wrote prescriptions. When he saw the lot of them, my friend feared that if he gave all these conflicting medicines to his child, she would die not of the disease but of the medicines.

Thereupon, he sent for a necromancer who would by magic discover which medicine would be most beneficial. And when the child got well from the measles, as most children do, it was the necromancer who got the credit.

I was minded of this incident when I received a circular from a publisher—let him be nameless—advertising a book by a handwriting expert—also to be unadvertised here—quoting a columnist and advising the world that the degree of the President's illness is to be measured by gazing at his signature.

Apparently it is no longer necessary to stick needles into arteries or veins or wherever they stick them to get a vial of blood for a technician to discover what ails one; it is no longer necessary to take a cardiogram to discover the workings of the heart, or to use X-ray to look at one's insides. Just send your signature to a signature reader and the whole truth will unveil itself. It does not say in the circular whether this is done to slow music and low lights.

Being punctured weekly to determine my dosage of dicumamol, I have a resentment against needle-sticking. Say what you will, it hurts. Why not send this page of copy, written in long-hand, to the handwriting bloke, who will then say to me for a fee, "Boy, you're doing fine. Hereafter don't let anybody stick you, not even Mrs. Arthur Miller, the former Marilyn Monroe."

Franklin D. Roosevelt was sick during his entire presidency, no matter how you say it. His illness finally got him down. In 1944, to prove that he was capable of doing it, he rode through New York in an open automobile in a cold rain and then went to the Waldorf-Astoria where he made a speech that came over the air badly. He was a sick man.

But everybody was decent about it, even reactionary Republicans who accused him of every crime in the code, but never talked of him as a sick man. It was regarded as ungentlemanly. My friend, Victor Ridder, who has had all of Mr. Roosevelt's ailments and many more, used to jest with me about his being crippled but claimed that he could do more work and did than many men who had not had polio, tuberculosis and cancer. Victor, who was 70 last April, is now in a London hospital after having been banged up in an automobile accident.

There is no telling whether sicknesses destroy the capacity of men to do their work. Ridder, who has been a sick man all his life, has helped to build a large and lucrative newspaper and radio chain and has engaged in many public services.

It seems to me that it is more a question of the spirit, the will, the faith of the individual than the ailments of the body. Frank Scully, whose greatest contribution to civilization is his book "Fun in Bed," for sick people, had, according to my last count, 22 operations in the course of which he lost a leg. Despite that he has had a newspaper career, he has written and had published many books, has raised and educated a brood of children, travels a great deal, and fights with his friends, including myself, about politics, he being a gregarious, outraged liberal and regarding the rest of the world as reactionary. Nevertheless, he remains high-spirited and aggressive. In other words, to hell with a leg; there is more to live for.

Forced Feeding Is Still Necessary

Adlai Stevenson, Nixon, Health And The Campaign

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
Adlai Stevenson's strategists are using the bandwagon technique to a fare-thee-well. There is, they say with careless confidence, no longer any serious question about the nomination—Stevenson can probably have it on the first ballot if he wants it that way. The real questions now, the Stevenson men say, are the vice presidential choice and post-convention strategy.

The bandwagon technique is a very old one, of course. But the confidence expressed in the Stevenson camp sounds convincing and most observers agree that it is probably justified. The Stevenson men sound a good deal less convincing when they claim that, having been nominated, Stevenson can also be elected. But their version of how the thing can be done is worth describing.

Think South Will Return
They claim that the South, including Texas, but probably excluding Florida, will return to the fold this year. In that case, Stevenson only needs to win the normally Democratic border states, plus a handful of Northern industrial states—Pennsylvania, Michigan and Massachusetts are cited as examples of states in which Stevenson should have a good chance.

But the Stevenson men assume that the Republican ticket will again be Eisenhower-Nixon, and they agree that, in order to win the needed handful of Northern industrial states, something effective must be done to counter the Republicans' great central asset, the President's remarkable personal popularity. The "something" is summed up in a slogan which will be much heard in months to come—"A Vote for Eisenhower Is a Vote for Nixon." The slogan neatly wraps up in one package the "health issue" and the supposed unpopularity of Vice President Nixon among independents and others.

The Stevenson post-convention strategy is largely based, in short, on hammering home the Nixon-health theme. Indeed, the hammering will start in earnest at the convention, which is being carefully planned for maximum emphasis on the importance of the vice presidency.

The Democratic National Committee has proposed a plan to this end. The balloting for the presidential nominee, according to this plan, would end on Wednesday, August 15, followed by an interim day to build suspense, with speeches by former President Truman and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt. The highlight of the final day, Friday, would be the vice presidential nomination, and the acceptance speeches of both candidates.

No Afterthought

Thus, for once, the vice presidential nomination would not be an anti-climactic afterthought.

There is no unanimous enthusiasm for this idea in the Stevenson camp, since it is feared that Stevenson's acceptance speech on Friday night would be unheard by voters bent on weekend holidays. But Stevenson and his advisers strongly agree on the need for emphasizing the vice presidency at the convention, and centering Democratic fire on Nixon thereafter.

Stevenson himself will do his share of the firing. Stevenson heartily dislikes the vice president. "If there's anyone the governor's emotional about," one Stevenson adviser has remarked, "it's that guy. If Nixon tries to play the high level stuff, the governor will needle the hell out of him, and he'll soon come down to earth."

This seems a shrewd appraisal of the high partisan instincts which Nixon has always displayed at campaign time. But the Democratic vice presidential candidate will have the main Nixon-needing assignment. This is one reason why Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts is currently considered the leading contender for second place on a Stevenson ticket.

Hard Put For Issues

Kennedy is an able and attractive campaigner. He is also a devout Catholic with a strong anti-Communist record. He is thus considered impervious on the "Communist issue," which Nixon has used repeatedly against the Democrats. It is also felt that Kennedy would attract back into the Democratic column many of the normally Democratic Catholic voters in the big industrial states, who strayed to Eisenhower in 1952.

Kennedy's vote against high rigid parity in the current session is the main talking point against him, since the Stevenson camp is also relying heavily on farm dissatisfaction. At any rate, the vice presidential candidate will certainly be chosen with great care and a maximum flourish, and with vice president Nixon very much in mind. But the heavy emphasis on the Nixon-health theme in the Stevenson campaign planning also suggests how hard put the Stevenson camp is for other winning issues.

Now There's A Hormone To Build Up Body Tissue

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Hormones are powerful substances; the majority have more than one effect upon the body. Thyroid secretion, for example, increases the pulse rate, raises metabolism, enhances appetite, and improves circulation. In addition, it affects the growth of scalp hair, warms the skin, and stimulates perspiration.

Like other hormones, thyroid extract is an "all or none" product. It cannot be used to aid the circulation without influencing the heart, metabolism, and the other structures.

The same can be said of the male sex hormone, testosterone. This compound helps to improve strength and appetite and encourages the rebuilding of tissues. It is responsible for sexual characteristics and the functioning of reproductive organs. But it cannot be employed in a woman or child to add strength or rebuild tissues without leaving masculinizing (androgenic) effects.

Several months ago a large pharmaceutical concern announced that they had been successful in altering the chemical structure of testosterone. The new formula has none of the virilizing effects of testosterone but has the same ability to rebuild tissues and improve appetite and strength.

Nilevar, this new tissue builder, was sent to more than 30 medical centers in this country and abroad. Reports now available show the steroid to be of most value in patients undergoing surgery. By preventing loss of nitrogen, the preparation helps to maintain strength and promote healing. In this respect, it should shorten convalescence and add to the safety of the operation.

The agent also improves appetite. This may be a boon to invalids and debilitated individuals. It was administered to 11 polio patients who had been confined to bed for several months because of extensive paralysis. The majority gained from one to six pounds. One of these youngsters acquired a ravenous appetite and put on 15 pounds.

Nilevar also was given to 12 premature babies for 21 to 35 days. These tots gained 15 per cent more weight than a control group. Patients with cancer, Hodgkin's disease, leukemia, and anorexia nervosa usually lose weight and strength; Nilevar prevented this. The drug has no effect on the cancer cells or the polio virus; it combats tissue wasting.

Airlines Have Not Been Compelled By CAA To Change Faulty Engines

By Drew Pearson

A CAB examiner retrieved the fallen motor and found that the governor drive shaft had failed. Just as the Hamilton Standard Propeller company had warned. The CAB examiner further reported:

"A review of past governor drive shaft failures of this type revealed four others that occurred during October and December 1955."

In other words, despite four failures, the CAA which enforces safety rules had not grounded the DC-7B until the propeller shaft defects could be remedied.

Only after the near tragedy over Venice on December 28, did the CAA act. On January 16, 1956, it made the change mandatory.

Tragedy Over Pacific

Another tragedy that could have been prevented occurred on March 17, 1955, when a Pan American Boeing 337 was ditched 35 miles off the Oregon coast while en route to Australia. The plane had lost its No. 3 engine and had gone out of control. Three people drowned and one died of shock.

The CAB investigation revealed that the pilot had been unable to increase the power of the three good engines in order to compensate for the loss of No. 3, due to electrical failure.

Here again both the airline and the CAA had been forewarned.

On December 21, 1953, the propeller manufacturer, Hamilton Standard, had recommended in its Service Bulletin No. 283 that the circuit breakers and fuses be reduced in order to prevent such failure.

However, CAA did not make the change mandatory. And, while Pan American had made the change on its DC-6s, it hadn't got around to altering its Boeing 337s.

"Compliance with this bulletin was not mandatory by the CAA," wrote the CAB examiner, "although the importance of its text was effectively demonstrated by the circumstances of this accident."

Only on April 21, 1956, after the accident, did the CAA force all airlines to make this change in the Boeing 337. This, however, was after three people had been drowned and one died of shock in the water off the Oregon coast.

Air Conditioning

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The recent hot weather suggests a column on air conditioning. Since we use it here in my office, I can speak freely regarding it. Any reader, however, who is interested should consult his local agent or plumber. Prices and needs vary for different sections of the country.

Advice To Merchants

I am convinced that merchants, in order to hold their trade, must universally adopt air conditioning. This especially applies to downtown "Main Street" merchants who must compete with the new shopping centers. I am fully convinced that the downtown stores have a distinct opportunity; but they must modernize as to lighting and air conditioning. They may also gradually shift over to men's clothing, underwear, office supplies, hardware, etc. which appeal to men rather than to women. Women can go to the shopping center any day, but men cannot.

Air conditioning will help merchants hold their good clerks. It will cost shopping-center merchants more wages than the downtown merchants will be obliged to pay, if the latter give their clerks equal advantages as to air conditioning, parking facilities, vacations, lunches, etc. If it is too late now to install air conditioning for this summer, clerks can be promised air conditioning for next summer. The summer will go by quickly, and downtown merchants can give better vacations than can shopping-center merchants.

Homes And Autos

Many of the new homes are now offering complete air conditioning. It will soon be fairly economical to buy a new heating arrangement which will provide also for air conditioning. At present, such complete installations are rather expensive, but I am sure that the prices of these combination units will be reduced, especially in the sections which are enjoying natural gas. As a practical matter, most homes desire only one or two bedrooms, a living room, and kitchen air conditioned. (There certainly is no reason for air conditioning the bedrooms of children.) These few rooms can be air conditioned with individual machines attached to windows. Almost every home will have at least one room air conditioned. Probably the new generation will insist upon more.

Until this past week I felt that air conditioning of automobiles was more or less a fad. Yet I remember this same comment was made when self-starters were first introduced. General Motors seems to be able to accomplish almost anything by sufficient advertising. I never expected to see a parking lot look more colorful than a petunia bed! Many auto dealers are now asking about $500 for installing air conditioning. I forecast that this price will be very much reduced.

Thoughts For Investors

It is probably too late in this season to buy good air conditioning stocks. Investors had better wait until next winter before doing so. If too many investors do not try the same trick, it might be smart, whatever the trend of the market, to buy air conditioning stocks during snowstorms and sell them during the hot summer weather! Air conditioning products offered by General Electric, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Philco, and others of the big electric appliance companies are to be recommended. The air conditioning business of these big companies, however, is small compared with their total sales.

Therefore, such companies as Admiral Corp., Borg-Warner, Carrier Corp., Fedders-Quigan, Trane Company, York, Holland Furnace, and Worthington Corp., which specialize in air conditioning, might be better to buy or sell at the above suggested times. In closing, let me forecast that air conditioning will be very helpful to your local electric power company. The day will come when its peak load will be in the summer from air conditioning and gravity neutralizers rather than from lighting as at present.

A Revealing Gesture By East Germany

Communist government of East Germany announces with pride that it has released more than 19,000 persons from prison in the last few weeks. It does not reveal how many more remain locked up.

The typical Communist procedure is to release statistics in such a manner that much of their meaning is hidden, as when Moscow announced how many men it was releasing from the armed forces but avoided disclosing how large those forces were before or after the cuts. In this latest incident, however, the Communist figures are revealing.

The United States has nearly 10 times East Germany's population. In 1954, the last year for which figures are available, the number of persons in all state and federal prisons and reformatories in the United States was 182,051. If this country were to release as many proportionately as East Germany, the figure would come to 190,000, leaving the nation's penal institutions empty. In fact, it would be necessary to arrest a few thousand before it would be possible to release that number.

Has East Germany emptied its prisons and left every criminal in the land free to prey on the population? Hardly. The clear implication is that the more than 19,000 released—more proportionately than the entire prison population of the United States—are persons who should not have been in prison in the first place.

The East German regime is admitting "errors." After all, anybody can make mistakes, and they were naturally misled by the "cult of personality" and by the deviationism of some officials and judges who are now being severely slapped on the wrist.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The President's Illness

A Chinese friend of mine, who had been educated at Columbia University in the 1880s and had achieved a high estate in his own country, discovered that the favorite child of his old age was down with the measles. He thereupon sent for all the doctors he could think of, those who practiced ancient Chinese herbal medicine, those who had been educated in Germany or the United States. Each one examined the child and wrote a prescription. As my friend was both famous and wealthy, none dared to refuse his request; so they all wrote prescriptions. When he saw the lot of them, my friend feared that if he gave all these conflicting medicines to his child, she would die not of the disease but of the medicines.

Thereupon, he sent for a necromancer who would by magic discover which medicine would be most beneficial. And when the child got well from the measles, as most children do, it was the necromancer who got the credit.

I was minded of this incident when I received a circular from a publisher—let him be nameless—advertising a book by a handwriting expert—also to be unadvertised here—quoting a columnist and advising the world that the degree of the President's illness is to be measured by gazing at his signature.

Apparently it is no longer necessary to stick needles into arteries or veins or wherever they stick them to get a vial of blood for a technician to discover what ails one; it is no longer necessary to take a cardiogram to discover the workings of the heart, or to use X-ray to look at one's insides. Just send your signature to a signature reader and the whole truth will unveil itself. It does not say in the circular whether this is done to slow music and low lights.

Being punctured weekly to determine my dosage of dicumarol, I have a resentment against needle-sticking. Say what you will, it hurts. Why not send this page of copy, written in long-hand, to the handwriting bloke, who will then say to me for a fee, "Boy, you're doing fine. Hereafter don't let anybody stick you, not even Mrs. Arthur Miller, the former Marilyn Monroe."

Franklin D. Roosevelt was sick during his entire presidency, no matter how you say it. His illness finally got him down. In 1944, to prove that he was capable of doing it, he rode through New York in an open automobile in a cold rain and then went to the Waldorf-Astoria where he made a speech that came over the air badly. He was a sick man.

But everybody was decent about it, even reactionary Republicans who accused him of every crime in the code, but never talked of him as a sick man. It was regarded as ungentlemanly. My friend, Victor Ridder, who has had all of Mr. Roosevelt's ailments and many more, used to jest with me about his being crippled but claimed that he could do more work and did than many men who had not had polio, tuberculosis and cancer. Victor, who was 70 last April, is now in a London hospital after having been banged up in an automobile accident.

There is no telling whether sicknesses destroy the capacity of men to do their work. Ridder, who has been a sick man all his life, has helped to build a large and lucrative newspaper and radio chain and has engaged in many public services.

It seems to me that it is more a question of the spirit, the will, the faith of the individual than the ailments of the body. Frank Scully, whose greatest contribution to civilization is his book "Fun in Bed," for sick people, had, according to my last count, 22 operations in the course of which he lost a leg. Despite that he has had a newspaper career, he has written and had published many books, has raised and educated a brood of children, travels a great deal, and fights with his friends, including myself, about politics, he being a gregarious, outraged liberal and regarding the rest of the world as reactionary. Airlines Have Not Been Compelled By CAA To Change Faulty Engines

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Buried in the files of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the Civil Aeronautics Board are reports on near air tragedies that don't make happy reading. Maybe that's why they are still buried.

They also show inexcusable negligence or buck-passing on the part of government officials and on the part of some airlines.

In view of the increasing congestion of the airways, with near misses in collisions happening several times a day, here is some of the disturbing information buried in CAB-CAA files.

One file shows failure of an important airline to change its propeller mechanism on the DC-7B when warned to do so, and the failure of the CAA to force a change — until after a near accident.

In November 1955, the Hamilton Standard Propeller Company had informed all DC-7B operators that it was replacing the drive shafts of its propellers on the DC-7B with an improved part. However, the CAA did not make this change mandatory and Pan American Airways continued to operate its DC-7Bs until such time it was possible to change them.

On December 28, 1955, following this, a Pan American DC-7B caught fire in its No. 3 engine while flying between Teheran and New York. The plane was about to attempt a forced landing by moonlight on the beach at Venice, Italy, when the engine fell out and it was able to continue and land safely at Rome.

Another tragedy that could have been prevented occurred on March 17, 1955, when a Pan American Boeing 337 was ditched 35 miles off the Oregon coast while en route to Australia. The plane had lost its No. 3 engine and had gone out of control. Three people drowned and one died of shock.

Pennsylvania Democrats may have hit on a way to counteract the big money going into GOP campaign coffers. In Lancaster, they have organized "Dues for Democracy," a plan whereby people donate a buck a month for five months — payable the first of the month. The tremendous amounts of money flowing into such states as Oregon to elect "Generous Doug" McKay make Democratic money-raising efforts look puny. Sen. Wayne Morse, running against McKay, has a nickel to spend as against every $10 for McKay.

Ex-Gov. Tom Dewey has told friends flatly he will not run for the Senate. He couldn't stand being junior to New York's Sen. Irving Ives. Adlai Stevenson has told aides if he wins the nomination he will replace Democrat National Chairman Paul Butler with his own campaign manager, James Finnegan of Philadelphia.

More Murders For Stalin — The next big bombshell expected in Poland will be a formal admission by Soviet leaders that Stalin and not the Nazis was responsible for the brutal Katyn Forest massacre of Polish war prisoners. This confession is reportedly being prepared as a further move to destroy the last vestiges of Stalin's reputation. Stalin will be blamed as personally responsible for the massacre of not only the 15,000 Polish officers who were massacred in 1943 but the death of some 30,000 others whose graves never have been found.

Nix On Nasser — Admiral Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has urged the State Department to cut off all aid to Egypt. Radford especially wants to cancel the big loan and grant which the United States offered Egypt to build the world's biggest dam on the Nile River. Premier Nasser of Egypt, Radford warns, has nuzzled up so close to Russia that he is virtually a Communist with dangerous delusions of grandeur. The American money that is to go to Egypt, he says, would be far better spent in Pakistan and Iran, two countries firmly on the American side in the cold war.

Turmoil Among Communists — Italy's Communist Boss Palmiro Togliatti is directing the European Communist parties in their denunciation of the present leaders of the Kremlin. This is part of a desperate effort to save his own neck. Togliatti, who is the elder statesman of European communism, has succeeded in surviving so far. But West European Communists are bitter over the fact that Italian, French, and other Communist leaders did nothing to expose Stalin's reign of terror.

Air Conditioning

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The recent hot weather suggests a column on air conditioning. Since we use it here in my office, I can speak freely regarding it. Any reader, however, who is interested should consult his local agent or plumber. Prices and needs vary for different sections of the country.

Advice To Merchants

I am convinced that merchants, in order to hold their trade, must universally adopt air conditioning. This especially applies to downtown "Main Street" merchants who must compete with the new shopping centers. I am fully convinced that the downtown stores have a distinct opportunity; but they must modernize as to lighting and air conditioning. They may also gradually shift over to men's clothing, underwear, office supplies, hardware, etc. which appeal to men rather than to women. Women can go to the shopping center any day, but men cannot.

Air conditioning will help merchants hold their good clerks. It will cost shopping-center merchants more wages than the downtown merchants will be obliged to pay, if the latter give their clerks equal advantages as to air conditioning, parking facilities, vacations, lunches, etc. If it is too late now to install air conditioning for this summer, clerks can be promised air conditioning for next summer. The summer will go by quickly, and downtown merchants can give better vacations than can shopping-center merchants.

Homes And Autos

Many of the new homes are now offering complete air conditioning. It will soon be fairly economical to buy a new heating arrangement which will provide also for air conditioning. At present, such complete installations are rather expensive, but I am sure that the prices of these combination units will be reduced, especially in the sections which are enjoying natural gas. As a practical matter, most homes desire only one or two bedrooms, a living room, and kitchen air conditioned. (There certainly is no reason for air conditioning the bedrooms of children.) These few rooms can be air conditioned with individual machines attached to windows. Almost every home will have at least one room air conditioned. Probably the new generation will insist upon more.

Until this past week I felt that air conditioning of automobiles was more or less of a fad. Yet I remember this same comment was made when self-starters were first introduced. General Motors seems to be able to accomplish almost anything by sufficient advertising. I never expected to see a parking lot look more colorful than a petunia bed! Many auto dealers are now asking about $500 for installing air conditioning. I forecast that this price will be very much reduced.

Thoughts For Investors

It is probably too late in this season to buy good air conditioning stocks. Investors had better wait until next winter before doing so. If too many investors do not try the same trick, it might be smart, whatever the trend of the market, to buy air conditioning stocks during snowstorms and sell them during the hot summer weather! Air conditioning products offered by General Electric, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Philco, and others of the big electric appliance companies are to be recommended. The air conditioning business of these big companies, however, is small compared with their total sales.

Therefore, such companies as Admiral Corp., Borg-Warner, Carrier Corp., Fedders-Quigley, Trane Company, York, Holland Furnace, and Worthington Corp., which specialize in air conditioning, might be better to buy or sell at the above suggested times. In closing, let me forecast that air conditioning will be very helpful to your local electric power company. The day will come when its peak load will be in the summer from air conditioning and gravity neutralizers rather than from lighting as at present.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cert

My host in Wichita once told me a weather story about three men who died on the same day and all left instructions that they be cremated. The one who had been born in Michigan was consumed first, then one from Ohio, and now it was the turn of the native of Kansas. At the end of two hours, they opened the furnace, and out he walked!

Mopping his forehead ever so lightly with a bandana, he gasped, "Two more days of this hot spell will ruin the corn for sure!"

A man leaned out of a car standing at the curb on New York's Lexington Avenue and asked Bob Sylvester, "What subway do I take to get to Canarsie?"

"Why not use your car?" suggested Sylvester.

"What?" squawked the inquirer, "and give up my parking space?"

Detroit Jolts Chisox Twice; Redlegs Preserve Slim Lead

Tigers Gather 36 Hits, Trim Pierce, Wilson

Lary, Foytack Win, 17-5, 8-6; Bengals Now In 5th Place

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Detroit's revived Tigers pounced on All-Star pitcher Jim Wilson and Billy Pierce with open claws today, ratching out 36 hits and sweeping a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 17-5 and 8-6.

The double victory vaulted Detroit into fifth place in the American League past Baltimore, which lost a pair to Boston.

Detroit rocked Wilson and four successors with an 18-hit attack in the opener and belted Pierce for 15 hits before he was lifted in the sixth inning when the Sox trailed 7-4.

Pierce Loses Third

Pierce, the majors' winningest pitcher, was out for his 14th triumph. Instead, he suffered his third loss.

Just as they had done to Wilson, the Tigers jumped on Pierce for four runs in the first inning on singles by Jack Phillips and Al Kaline, a walk, Ray Boone's two-run triple and a double by Bill Tuttle.

The Sox got to Detroit starter and winner, Al Lary, for three runs in their half of the first on singles by Nelson Fox, Dave Philley, Sherm Lollar and Walt Dropp but never could overtake the Tigers.

The Tigers whacked Wilson for four runs in the first inning of the opener, capped by Frank Bolling's two-run double. They added two more in the third on Kaline's 12th homer and put the issue beyond doubt with an eight-run outburst in the third.

Foytack Bags Sixth

Detroit righthander Paul Foytack, who evened his record at 6-6, started shakily by walking the bases full but got out of the scrape with only one run scoring on a sacrifice fly. He settled down after that and allowed only a second-inning single by Luis Aparicio until the seventh when Bubba Phillips led off with his first homer of the year.

California Fined $25,000 By Pacific Coast Conference

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8 (AP)—The Pacific Coast Conference today hit the University of California with a $25,000 fine, the largest direct money penalty ever levied against a PCC institution.

Conference athletic directors and faculty representatives fined UC $25,000 for the part played by Lynn O. Waldorf, head football coach, in illegal financing aid to athletes for the last three years.

In action on the University of Southern California case, which had been expected to highlight the two-day session, the conference declared the Trojans ineligible to participate in Rose Bowl football or receipts for the next two years.

It levied a fine of $10,000 against the USC for denying information about athletic payments to conference Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt.

The USC Trojans were placed on probation until July 1, 1958, and the California Bears until July 1, 1957.

The penalties were assessed for illegal payments to some 42 student athletes at USC and to 29 at California.

Mickey Mantle May Appear In All-Star Game

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, leading home run slugger of the majors, appeared as likely starter in Tuesday's All-Star game today as he returned to the New York Yankee lineup for a series finale with Washington.

If Mantle's injured right knee bothered him after the Sunday workout, he might have to settle for a pinch hitting job. It probably won't be known for certain until game time Tuesday.

"What are you going to do?" said Manager Casey Stengel when Mantle, still limping, wanted to play against Washington. "He is a cripple and insists on playing."

Stengel and Alston will announce their starting pitchers and the batting order of the other starters, who were selected by vote of the fans, at a press conference Monday morning.

The game will start at noon (EST) with network radio (Mutual) and television (NBC) coverage. In case of rain, the game will be played Tuesday night, Wednesday morning or Wednesday afternoon, whenever weather permits.

Yankee Homers Sink Senators

Bauer Hits Pair In 8-2 Triumph

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Injured Mickey Mantle got back into the New York Yankees' lineup for four innings today, rapped a single and scored a run as other Yankees poled the home runs to trounce Washington 8-2 and give the American League leaders a sweep of their three-game set with the Senators.

Hank Bauer slammed two homers, his 17th and 18th of the season. Gil McDougald, extending his torrid batting streak, and Bill Skowron, also each hit one as the Yankees rolled up eight runs against Washington for the third straight game.

A crowd of 14,975, second highest of the season for Griffith Stadium, turned out on the chance Mantle might play after sitting out the last four games with a sprained right knee. A manager Casey Stengel yielded to the 24-year-old center fielder's urging and let him start to the roaring delight of the fans.

Johnny Kucks, second of four Yankee pitchers, was credited with the victory, his 11th of the season and first in relief. Stobbs, the starter, took the defeat, his sixth against seven wins and his third in five tries at the Yanks.

St. Louis Bows To Cincinnati In 3-2 Contest

Freeman Rescues Nuxhall; Winners Are Outhit, 12-4

CINCINNATI, July 8 (AP)—Cincinnati's Redlegs had to come from behind today with three runs punched across in the seventh inning to edge St. Louis' Cardinals 3-2 and preserve their slender National League lead in a single Sunday game. Reliever Hershel Freeman had to snuff out a brief Cardinal rally in the ninth to preserve the win.

The Redlegs got only four hits while the Cardinals sprayed a dozen around Crosley Field that yielded their two scores.

Joe Nuxhall collected the victory, his sixth of the season. The Cards reached him for 10 of their hits and both their runs before he was replaced in the eighth.

Willard Schmidt limited the Redlegs to two hits, a double in the second and a single in the fourth, before he weakened in the seventh and yielded the mound job to Herm Wehmeier.

But the Cardinal starter had to pitch his way out of trouble in the first and third innings after walking two Redlegs in each.

Wehmeier faced only three men, but took the loss after the two tying Redlegs runs came across during his pitching time. Don Liddle finished for the Cards.

A timely single by Wally Post brought the Redlegs even with the Cards 2-2 in the seventh.

Third-sacker Ray Jablonski and Roy McMillan walked at the start of the inning, and after pinch-hitter Jim Dyck sacrificed, Johnny Temple also walked.

Then Post came through with his single, and Jablonski and McMillan scooted home. Gus Bell grounded out to Musial, allowing Temple to sprint across with the winning tally.

Dodgers, Phillies Split Twin Bill

PHILADELPHIA, July 8 (AP)—Brooklyn and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader at Connie Mack Stadium today, the Dodgers taking the first 9-2 on big Don Newcombe's four-bitter and the Phillies the nightcap, 3-2, on a three-run double in the sixth by Willie Jones.

Jones' smack extended his current hitting streak to 17 consecutive games.

Protecting the Phillies' nightcap victory was Jack Meyer, who hurled one-hit ball for four innings in a relief stint for Ron Negray.

Negray held the Dodgers to six hits in his term.

In the first game, Newcombe posted his 11th victory.

Del Ennis spoiled a shutout for the righthander with a ninth-inning homer onto the roof of the left-field stands, scoring Stan Lopata, who had doubled. It was Ennis' 15th homer.

But the Cardinal starter had to pitch his way out of trouble in the first and third innings after walking two Redlegs in each.

Wehmeier faced only three men, but took the loss after the two tying Redlegs runs came across during his pitching time. Don Liddle finished for the Cards.

Giants Clout Seven Homers, Top Bucs, 11-1

Pittsburgh Grabs Second Game, 5-2

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—The last-place New York Giants smashed seven home runs, one short of the major league record, in walloping Pittsburgh 11-1 in the first game of a doubleheader today, but the Pirates came back to win the nightcap 5-2 with Dick Groat's two-run double breaking a two-all tie in the eighth inning.

Willie Mays, Daryl Spencer and Wes Westrum each socked two home runs in the Giants' first game runaway.

The second game was a pitching duel between the Bucs' Ron Kline and Al Worthington until the Pirates cut loose for three runs in the eighth. Rookie Bill Mazeroski singled to open the frame and a pinch infield single by Jerry Lynch, batting for Kline, and a walk, loaded the bases to bring on relief Ray Grissom.

Groat tagged Grissom for the RBI double and a wild pitch got the final run home.

It was Kline's seventh victory and Worthington's ninth defeat.

Hank Thompson, who smacked one of the first-game homers, broke a 1-1 tie with his fourth home run of the year in the fourth.

But Frank Thomas knotted it again in the fifth with his 14th homer.

Imaginations Soar

Summer is upon us and the heat seems to have sent the writer's imagination soaring. I can't say whether it's a trend or not but there seems to be an awful lot of the fanciful, the fey and the weird going around the drama programs. In the last couple of weeks one actor grew wings and threatened to use them, another one flew to the polar star and flying saucers flew all over the place.

This sort of thing requires that the audience suspend, as they say, belief, and in the belief suspension department no one cooperates more readily than I except that I insist I have something to suspend the belief on. Not all of these enterprises gave you much. I should say the most successful was Kraft Theater's "Flying Objects At 3 O'clock High." This was about what the Air Force calls a UFO (unknown flying object to you, chum) and was written by a veteran pilot, DeWitt Copp, who once saw and reported a UFO.

Insofar as UFO's can be made plausible at all, this one was. That is, it was imbedded in all that Air Force gobbledegook in which all language is reduced either to numbers or initials. ("SERVAT to F-812. Ruffleswatch to oversnatch 86 degrees and over.")

The story opened with a couple of radio operatives watching in horror as a UFO swallows up an F-101 on their radar screen. (How far we've come from: "You mean you're going to send that kid up in a crate like that on a night like this." Or even: "You're not a general, you're a butcher—sending those B-17s out without fighter cover.")

Still, the story generated a good deal of excitement in a science fiction sort of way. I don't like to read the stuff but I enjoy looking at it. Jets took off in pursuit of the UFO; the radar saucers swept the skies; the telephones from the Pentagon jangled. The actors, headed by Everett Sloane as a lynx-eyed intelligence colonel and Biff McGuire as a nosey reporter, played the thing straight. Fortunately the writers kept the note of hysteria down to reasonable limits and except for occasional lapses—"if they're hostile, we are at their mercy, and God have pity on us all"—the dialogue was fairly sensible about an essentially fantastic bit of business.

Another drama pretty much on the fanciful side was Alcoa's "The Archangel Harrison." Actually, the Archangel Harrison (Darren McGavin) was a con man and bamboozled a small town into believing he was going to leap from an airplane and fly to the ground on a pair of homemade wings, the whole idea being to get a little publicity to get a job at a state fair. However, in pursuit of this swindle, he meets a girl—they seem to be all over the place—and falls in love. And you know what that leads to—integrity. Or so they say.

The town, which the author put so far back into the woods as to seem almost off this planet, was inhabited by a mixture of Scotch and Irish whose brogues sounded as if the people had all landed yesterday.

"Ya should'n' ha' coom," says the girl (Janice Rule).

"Tis Satan's work they do," says her father speaking of all men. "There's much sin the world."

"Come sat beside me and swallow the moonlight," says Harrison.

Practically everyone talked in this moonstruck way but somehow the actors contrived to make it both credible and appealing. It was a rather light but beguiling bit of nonsense and Janice Rule, I thought, as a wildly innocent woodland creature was thoroughly charming.

"Studio One's" production of "Mr. Arcularis" was another dish of tea entirely. This was adapted from a story by Conrad Aiken and is about a guy under anesthesia from a serious operation. From the operating table, the cameras chase him around an ocean liner where he makes a nightly sleepwalking visit to a coffin in the refrigerating room, to the polar star, and even back to his own childhood which was full of unpleasant recollections about his mother, her lover and their death. At the end he dies on the operating table.

It was, in short, grim and, I thought, unnecessary. For some reason this story has been done three times on the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation with John Draine who played the title role there, doing it down here, too. I can't think what the Canadians see in it.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
 ANYDLBAAXR
 is LONGFELLOW
 One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

South West North East
 1 ♣ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
 2 ♣ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you now bid with each of the following four hands?

- ♠ 64 ♥ KQ9 ♦ 63 ♣ AKQJ64
- ♠ 842 ♥ 95 ♦ AQ6 ♣ AQJ87
- ♠ 8 ♥ KJ74 ♦ A9 ♣ KQJ732
- ♠ K7 ♥ 3 ♣ KJ84 ♣ AJ9862

1. Three notrump. Since each new suit named by the responder compels the opening bidder to speak again, no further bid should be made on the hand which might sound as though it were made under stress. A bid of either two notrump or three clubs would have such a ring to it, and either of them might be passed by North. The two club bid already made was in the nature of a sign-off, and, although correct, understated the real values. It is time to balance the previous underbid. On straight merit, the hand contains seven probable winners, and it is not too much to expect North to produce several tricks for his forcing bids.

2. Two spades. We are dealing with a minimum hand, and it should be bid as a minimum. A three diamond bid would be wrong on two counts. It raises the level needlessly, and it shows a preference for diamonds as against spades which is based on strength and not length. When the final contract has to be in a suit, the aim of the partnership is to play in the suit with the greatest number of trumps, not necessarily in the strongest suit. Quantity, not quality, should govern the choice. North may easily have more spades than diamonds; he cannot have more diamonds than spades because he would have bid them first.

3. Two hearts. This bid is not made in the hope or the expectation that North can support hearts. Its purpose is to caution North that there is neither spade nor diamond support, and that there is also an aversion to play at notrump, even though all four suits are accounted for.

4. Four diamonds. A great change in the evaluation of the hand takes place when North bids two diamonds. The one club bid was of the minimum variety, and the two club bid identified it, but a brand new hand evolves when responder names diamonds. Put into points, our hand changes to roughly the equivalent of an 18 point hand with balanced distribution. A raise to three diamonds, especially when it may be attributable to North's forcing bid, is inadequate. The new complexion of the hand has to be forcibly expressed.

WHAT WAS THAT GENIUS?

SOMETHING EXPLODED OVER-HEAD!

LOOK! SOMETHING'S DROPPING BY PARACHUTE!

THIS IS CRAZY! WE'RE IN PREHISTORIC TIME—AGES BEFORE PARACHUTES WERE MADE!

MILLIONS OF YEARS BEFORE OUR TIME... BUT WE'RE HERE!

I DON'T BELIEVE ANY OF IT.

BUZ SAWYER

WOW! HOW'S ABOUT PITCHING CAMP HERE FOR THE NIGHT, HONEYBEE?

LOOKS DIVINE, CHUCK.

I'M AFRAID THIS PLACE IS A LITTLE EXPENSIVE FOR US, CHUCK.

WHY, BUZ, OLD BOY, DON'T GIVE IT A THOUGHT. I THOUGHT YOU KNEW I WAS TAKING CARE OF EVERYTHING.

DID YOU EVER SEE SUCH A DELICIOUS, CAREFREE COUPLE AS THE COBBERS? AND THIS MARVELOUS PLACE THEY PICKED TO SPEND THE NIGHT, EVERYTHING'S PERFECT! A LITTLE TOO PERFECT.

BARNEY & SNUFFY

I GOT TO GO OUT AND WEED MY ONIONS, MISS NANNY—YE CRAVE TO GO ALONG?

I'D BETTER NOT, MRS. SMITH—I FRECKLE SOMETHING FIERCE.

OH, THANK YOU, MA'AM.

WE HAVE REACHED THE SHAL-WATER ZONE IN THIS REGION OF ROCKS, REFS AND ISLES. JESSICA, IT WILL BE SAFER TO ANCHOR HERE TONIGHT. THEN TOMORROW...

YES, TALBOT—TOMORROW WE RESUME OUR WILD-GOOSE CHASE AFTER A SMALL CHILD AND AN UNKNOWN MAN. — I THINK IT'S FOOLISH!

NO! MY INSTINCTS TELL ME THEY ARE HERE—SOMEWHERE. THE MAN'S NOT UNKNOWN TO ME. I HAVE SEEN HIS FACE IN THE NEWSPAPERS. — "MADE THE MARKER"—A WANTED CRIMINAL.

ABOUT THE CHILD I DON'T KNOW, BUT I STRONGLY SUSPECT MARK'S CRIMES MAROONED THEM BOTH ON ONE OF THESE PITILESS ROCKS. — I MUST SEEK FARTHER FOR THEM, OR MY CONSCIENCE WOULD NEVER LET ME REST.

OF COURSE, TALBOT.

I DIDN'T STEAL IT, MOTHER.

I MERELY BORROWED IT TO ENTER IN THE CIVIC CENTER ART SHOW! IT'S GREAT ART! HE'S A GENIUS—IT COULD WIN FIRST PRIZE.

LISTEN, THAT THING COULDN'T WIN FIRST PRIZE IN A MUD-DAUBER'S CONTEST DOWN AT MUCK-RIVER FLATS.

Delegates See Ike, Adlai Candidates

Sen. Beall Says Eisenhower Will Be Re-elected

A prediction that President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be nominated for a second term at the coming Republican National Convention and will be re-elected in November was made yesterday by U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, speaking as one of Maryland's 24 delegates to the convention.

Senator Beall was contacted at his home in Frostburg concerning his views as to whom the Maryland to the GOP convention will support.

Maryland's Republican voters in the May 7 primary election voted overwhelmingly in favor of Eisenhower over an unopposed delegate to the national convention which starts August 20 in San Francisco.

That vote would require the state's 24 delegates to continue to support the President so long as he appears in the running for the nomination.

It is generally understood that Eisenhower can have the nomination without a contest if he decides he still would like a second term in that high office.

Senator Beall is the only Allegheny County delegate to the convention. William A. Gunter, local attorney, has been named his alternate. Because Senator Beall will be late in arriving at the convention, Gunter will take his place as a member of the resolutions committee.

Each delegate to the GOP convention is entitled to a full vote.

North Branch Line Is Built For $363,000

The North Branch Water Line was built by the City of Cumberland at a cost of about $363,000, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

The 26,500-foot water line, he said, will provide an assured supply of pure water for domestic use at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 at North Branch, as well as a reserve capacity for emergency fire and process uses.

It was designed and built primarily as an industrial project to meet the needs of the $34,000,000 plate glass plant, but provisions were included so it can serve housing developments along the right of way.

Many interesting facts about the line, he said, are included in a report by William E. Piper, who was attached to the City Engineering Department to design the project.

PPG, Piper said, required 500 gallons of water a minute for domestic uses, plus an emergency supply of 1,800 gallons a minute, for a total of 2,300 g.p.m., to be delivered by gravity over the edge of a 100,000-gallon storage tank.

Differences in the elevation of the Fort Hill Reservoir and the PPG tank provide a head of 102 feet of water.

During the planning stage, it was decided to build an 18-inch line, instead of 16, since friction losses in the smaller diameter would leave only a 14-foot head in an 18-inch line.

The line did not go the way the crew flies, since 26,500 feet of line were required for the 20,000-foot distance due south from the Fort Hill Reservoir to the meter house at the plant.

The contract for laying the line was awarded to the Cumberland Contracting Company, which began work last November 21 and completed the project on June 2, using only 112 of the 150 working days allotted for the task.

It is a tight line, Piper reported. From its 707 joints, actual leakage when tested was 7.8 gallons of water an hour, 8 1/2 per cent of the permissible loss.

The cost, which averaged $13.71 a foot, included $167,500 for the spirally welded steel pipe and $176,000 for laying the pipe and furnishing accessories.

Walsh, Buchholtz, Ryan Favor Switch To Stevenson

William C. Walsh, local attorney, said yesterday he favors a switch from Senator Estes Kefauver to Adlai E. Stevenson on the second ballot of the National Democratic Convention which opens in Chicago August 13.

He thus joins with Allegheny County's other two delegates to the Democratic conclave, who previously announced that they favor a switch to Stevenson on the second ballot. They are Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg and Cumberland attorney, and William H. Buchholtz, street commissioner of the City of Cumberland.

A majority of the Maryland delegates to the Democratic convention favor Stevenson after the first ballot, according to a survey conducted by the Baltimore Sun.

Walsh was not quoted in that poll because he was in Hot Springs, Va., last week.

Maryland's Democratic voters in the May 7 primary voted for Senator Kefauver over an unopposed delegate to the Chicago convention. The 36 delegates, who cast one-half vote each, are obligated to support Senator Kefauver as long as he appears to have a chance for the nomination.

Walsh said he did not expect the Tennessee Senator to pick up much new support on the second ballot. In that case, he believes that Maryland should support the 1952 standard-bearer, Stevenson.

If a deadlock then develops and Stevenson cannot win the nomination, Walsh favors support for Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, a dark-horse candidate who formerly resided in Maryland.

The Baltimore Sun survey showed similar support for Symington from other delegates.

The Associated Press reported that the two men who had as much to say as anybody about picking the delegation, Michael J. Birmingham and J. Millard Taves, are ready to jump on the Stevenson bandwagon at the first opportunity.

Birmingham, the new national committeeman from Maryland, makes no bones about Stevenson being his choice. Taves, who will be chairman of the delegation, said he is "leaning toward" Stevenson.

Others ready to follow are John C. Luber, Philip Dorsey, Irving Kovens, Phillip H. Goodman, J. Raymond Buffington Jr., and Maurice Nolker.

Some more felt the same way but didn't want to be identified in the Sun poll.

Mayor D'Alessandro, who will be national committeeman during the convention, also believes the Maryland delegation will cast its votes quickly for Stevenson after fulfilling its legal commitment to Kefauver. Then, he hopes, a deadlock will develop between Stevenson and Averell Harriman with a movement to break it leading to Symington.

The gun accidentally discharged, with the bullet striking him about three inches above the knee. The slug angled down through the knee joint, attendants said. His condition was listed as fairly good.

Westernport Youth Drowns In Potomac

John Kookon, 18, Steps Into Hole

An 18-year-old Westernport boy drowned in the South Branch of the Potomac River about 6 p. m. yesterday when he stepped into a deep hole while wading.

John Robert Kookon of 209 Vine Street, Westernport, was picnicking with his family on the Stump sisters property about six miles west of Romney, W. Va., when the mishap occurred.

West Virginia State Police from Romney investigated and gave this story:

The youth, who could not swim, was wading along the bank of the Potomac River with members of the family when he suddenly stepped into a deep sink hole and disappeared beneath the water.

Witnesses attempted to save the boy, but were unable to locate him in the cloudy waters.

The Romney Volunteer Fire Company, called to the scene, dragged the river for over an hour before recovering the body. The boy was pronounced dead at the scene by Hampshire County Coroner A. L. Russell.

Trooper James Martin of the Romney detachment of the State Police investigated and said the boy's death was ruled as accidental drowning.

Young Kookon was a son of Mrs. Pauline Keller of Westernport. His stepfather is Patrick Keller.

The body was taken to a Romney funeral home and then was removed to the Boal Funeral Home in Westernport.

Area Youth Rescues Boy From Water

Saves Baltimore Youngster's Life

A 14-year-old Baltimore boy who slipped on a watermelon rind and fell into the harbor there Saturday night was rescued by Robert Kertesz, 19, of Westernport, a Naval Reserve sailor who was on liberty.

Ronald Miller, who could not swim, was saved by the Westernport youth, who was walking along the pier with some sailor companions at the time.

Kertesz, a graduate of Bruce High School this past June, said he heard someone call for help, and saw the Miller boy's head bobbing in the water of the Baltimore harbor.

He jumped in, clothes and all, and held the boy high enough in the water so his three sailor companions could reach him.

The youngster was treated at Mercy Hospital in Baltimore for exposure and later was released.

Kertesz has been in Baltimore for the past two weeks as part of the Naval Reserve training program. He was on liberty from a naval auxiliary ship docked nearby at the time of the incident.

The youth returned to his home in Westernport over the weekend and left this morning to return for the beginning of a 28-day summer training cruise with the Naval Reserve units on the U.S.S. Hull.

Kertesz was a popular athlete in Bruce High School, playing basketball, soccer and baseball. He lives with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hines, 430 Vine Street, in Westernport.

He is a son of Mrs. Edna Kertesz of West New York, N. J., and the late Mr. Kertesz. He came to Westernport to live when he was eight years old.

In addition of his sports activities and Naval Reserve participation, Kertesz is a member of Victory Post American Legion drum and bugle corps of Westernport.

Listed as improved were Milton Greenspoon, 44, of Danville, Va.; his wife, Dorothy, 44, and their daughter, Rita, 7. Hospital attendants said the young girl was able to get up and move about.

Treated at the hospital for injuries received in the crash were Zelma Greenspoon, 15; Charles H. Goodson, 71, of Ellington, Mo.; his wife, Bertie, 64; their sons, Wilmer J. Goodson, 32, St. Louis; and Delmar Goodson, husband of the woman who was released.

Today's Sermonette

... I have provided me a king. I Samuel 16:1.

Today's sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached by First Lt. James Pappas, commanding officer of the South Cumberland Corps, Salvation Army. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Call Of God

By LT. JAMES PAPPAS

Samuel, the great old-time prophet of God, was sent on a quest to find a new king for God's chosen people, to replace King Saul, who had become proud and no longer depending upon God for assistance. God sent Samuel to the house of Jesse in Bethlehem and was told that he should anoint as king the one whom God would show him.

Several sons of Jesse were brought forth, but, each time when Samuel asked if that person was to be the chosen one, God answered him, and told him "This is not he." Finally, when it seemed as if none of the sons of Jesse would be anointed, Samuel asked if there were yet another son left. There was left only David, a mere shepherd lad, but when David was brought forth, God revealed to Samuel that this was the man who would soon take the throne which Saul now occupied.

There are several outstanding things about this particular story that bear emphasizing which could be seen very clearly upon deep study.

First of all, outward appearances are not always to be relied upon. A person may look all right, as David's brothers did. Others may conjecture that he is all right, as did Jesse of his elder sons, but it is the condition of the heart which determines whether one is right or not. "The Lord looketh on the heart."

God often calls the most unlikely persons. Many times we cannot visualize individuals that we know in a place of prominence, because of their young age and inexperience. Jesse had not taken David into consideration, because he felt that he was too young to know anything of the terrific responsibility of being a ruler, and also felt that David lacked experience, knowing practically nothing of the world outside of his own home. God also calls those who seem not to have much ability, David was merely a shepherd boy. He had never had much prominence in social affairs, and it seemed that he was destined to live a meager life as a mere shepherd, and that he wouldn't amount to much.

So it is today, and we humans cannot see beyond the present time, not because it is impossible, but because we do not have the spiritual insight that the power of the Holy Spirit can give us. When we see an individual who has led an evil, ungodly life, we see only their present condition. But what a change when that person is transformed by the miraculous power of God!

Whom God calls, He fits. The moment He calls, He supplies the power to comply with His request. He provides a continual supply of power, subject to continual obedience on the part of those He calls. Excuses are unavailing. Moses, in the presence of God, made excuses that he was slow of speech, but God told him that he would use him, regardless of any handicap he may have had.

Perhaps you are saying that you are not called to full service for God. Listen to what William Booth, founder of The Salvation Army said:

"Not called, did you say? Not heard the call, I think you should say. He has been loudly calling ever since He spoke your sins forgiven — if you are forgiven at all — entreating you and beseeching you to be His ambassador. Put your ear down to the Bible and hear Him bid you go and pull poor sinners out of the fire of sin. Put your ear down to the burdened, agonizing heart of humanity and listen to its pitiful wail for help."

What about you? Do you hear God's voice speaking to you? Is He calling you to greater service? If so, answer that call.

Isn't That A Big One!

Carlene Dowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carson Dowell, 835 Braddock Road, proudly adds a splendid specimen of the Cecropia moth to her animal collection which won her the "most worthwhile" prize in a hobby show held recently at Mt. Firemen Face Two Weeks Of Brush Burning

Work May Resume In South End Tomorrow

The Cumberland Fire Department hopes to resume its grass and brush burning program tomorrow, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

He said it will take two solid weeks of work to burn over the areas which cause most of the grass fires in the city.

If weather conditions are right, Chief Parker said, the work will resume tomorrow, clearing an area on Laing Avenue extended.

Next in line are areas on Braddock Road and Brown Avenue on the West Side.

Chief Parker said the recent burning of a large area on Wempe Field has paid for itself already. Grass fires in South Cumberland, he added, have been cut 85 per cent.

The controlled burning of the areas subject to grass fires, Chief Parker said, will be continued throughout the summer, as wind and weather conditions permit, and as firemen can be scheduled for the work.

The grass and brush is burned systematically by volunteer crews on their time off. The men receive an additional day's vacation for each day of brush burning.

Collecting Living Things Proves Worthwhile Hobby

By G. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Learning more about living things is one of the interesting hobbies of little Carlene Dowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carson Dowell, 835 Braddock Road.

Carlene, who will be 7 this month, began collecting animals shortly after her family moved here from Sacramento, Calif., in the fall of 1954, when her father was named assistant sales manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

She began collecting butterflies, moths and insects including wasps because of her interest in "anything that lives" in nature.

Her collection was judged the most worthwhile in a hobby show held last week at Mt. Royal Playground.

The only unscientific thing about Carlene's hobby is the method of collection.

Her sole equipment consists of her two capable hands and a jar with a lid on it.

After collecting a specimen, she begins to prepare it for her exhibit by dropping a piece of alcohol-saturated cotton into the container.

Then it is added to the growing collection in cellophane covered boxes.

Carlene knows the scientific names of many of her prizes, collected either near her home or on hikes taken with her family.

Other hobbies in which she takes an active interest are piano lessons and freehand drawing.

She is one of four children and all of them have hobbies.

Don, 14, has been interested in building model airplanes for years, and is a drummer in the Allegheny High School Senior Band.

Kay Lynne, 11, plays the piano, violin and Hawaiian guitar and is now adding the drum to her accomplishments.

John, 5 1/2, collects rocks, and is adept at keeping all members of the family busy.

Wheat Loan Price For Counties Listed

Prices for Maryland wheat under loan are lower for Garrett and Allegheny counties than in any of the state's other 21 counties, according to an informational letter released over the weekend by Chester S. Bradley, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The price for Grade No. 1 wheat in Garrett County is $2.10 per bushel and in Allegheny County $2.15. The prices range upward to a high of $2.27 a bushel in Howard County. Wheat loan prices for lower grades of wheat range downward to $2.01 in Garrett and $2.06 in Allegheny County for Grade No. 5 wheat.

Comparatively few wheat growers in Allegheny County obtain price supports for their wheat because they are able to sell it for about $2 a bushel on the open market.

Mrs. Blanche Myers of Frostburg owned the house in which Mrs. Bernetta Broy resided. The other half of the house was unoccupied. The owner could not be reached immediately, so firemen did not know whether the property was insured.

Flames of undetermined origin destroyed a two-car garage along Mill Run near Barton but some 22 members of the Barton Volunteer Fire Company managed to keep the fire from spreading to the nearby dwelling.

The call came at 7:15 p. m. yesterday and 22 Barton volunteers were at the scene about one hour. As they arrived the fire had begun to spread to the house, but they doused the flames and kept the fire from damaging the residence.

It was merely scorched. The flames also were kept away from a coal house near the garage. Both the garage and double house were of frame construction, but the house had been covered with brick siding.

Delegates See Ike, Adlai Candidates

Sen. Beall Says Eisenhower Will Be Re-elected

A prediction that President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be nominated for a second term at the coming Republican National Convention and will be re-elected in November was made yesterday by U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, speaking as one of Maryland's 24 delegates to the convention.

Senator Beall was contacted at his home in Frostburg concerning his views as to whom the Maryland to the GOP convention will support.

Maryland's Republican voters in the May 7 primary election voted overwhelmingly in favor of Eisenhower over an unopposed delegate to the national convention which starts August 20 in San Francisco.

That vote would require the state's 24 delegates to continue to support the President so long as he appears in the running for the nomination.

It is generally understood that Eisenhower can have the nomination without a contest if he decides he still would like a second term in that high office.

Senator Beall is the only Allegheny County delegate to the convention. William A. Gunter, local attorney, has been named his alternate. Because Senator Beall will be late in arriving at the convention, Gunter will take his place as a member of the resolutions committee.

Each delegate to the GOP convention is entitled to a full vote.

North Branch Line Is Built For $363,000

The North Branch Water Line was built by the City of Cumberland at a cost of about $363,000, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

The 26,500-foot water line, he said, will provide an assured supply of pure water for domestic use at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 at North Branch, as well as a reserve capacity for emergency fire and process uses.

It was designed and built primarily as an industrial project to meet the needs of the $34,000,000 plate glass plant, but provisions were included so it can serve housing developments along the right of way.

Many interesting facts about the line, he said, are included in a report by William E. Piper, who was attached to the City Engineering Department to design the project.

PPG, Piper said, required 500 gallons of water a minute for domestic uses, plus an emergency supply of 1,800 gallons a minute, for a total of 2,300 g.p.m., to be delivered by gravity over the edge of a 100,000-gallon storage tank.

Differences in the elevation of the Fort Hill Reservoir and the PPG tank provide a head of 102 feet of water.

During the planning stage, it was decided to build an 18-inch line, instead of 16, since friction losses in the smaller diameter would leave only a 14-foot head in an 18-inch line.

The line did not go the way the crew flies, since 26,500 feet of line were required for the 20,000-foot distance due south from the Fort Hill Reservoir to the meter house at the plant.

The contract for laying the line was awarded to the Cumberland Contracting Company, which began work last November 21 and completed the project on June 2, using only 112 of the 150 working days allotted for the task.

It is a tight line, Piper reported. From its 707 joints, actual leakage when tested was 7.8 gallons of water an hour, 8 1/2 per cent of the permissible loss.

The cost, which averaged $13.71 a foot, included $167,500 for the spirally welded steel pipe and $176,000 for laying the pipe and furnishing accessories.

The Call Of God

By LT. JAMES PAPPAS

Samuel, the great old-time prophet of God, was sent on a quest to find a new king for God's chosen people, to replace King Saul, who had become proud and no longer depending upon God for assistance. God sent Samuel to the house of Jesse in Bethlehem and was told that he should anoint as king the one whom God would show him.

Several sons of Jesse were brought forth, but, each time when Samuel asked if that person was to be the chosen one, God answered him, and told him "This is not he." Finally, when it seemed as if none of the sons of Jesse would be anointed, Samuel asked if there were yet another son left. There was left only David, a mere shepherd lad, but when David was brought forth, God revealed to Samuel that this was the man who would soon take the throne which Saul now occupied.

There are several outstanding things about this particular story that bear emphasizing which could be seen very clearly upon deep study.

First of all, outward appearances are not always to be relied upon. A person may look all right, as David's brothers did. Others may conjecture that he is all right, as did Jesse of his elder sons, but it is the condition of the heart which determines whether one is right or not. "The Lord looketh on the heart."

God often calls the most unlikely persons. Many times we cannot visualize individuals that we know in a place of prominence, because of their young age and inexperience. Jesse had not taken David into consideration, because he felt that he was too young to know anything of the terrific responsibility of being a ruler, and also felt that David lacked experience, knowing practically nothing of the world outside of his own home.

God also calls those who seem not to have much ability. David was merely a shepherd boy. He had never had much prominence in social affairs, and it seemed that he was destined to live a meager life as a mere shepherd, and that he wouldn't amount to much.

So it is today, and we humans cannot see beyond the present time, not because it is impossible, but because we do not have the spiritual insight that the power of the Holy Spirit can give us. When we see an individual who has led an evil, ungodly life, we see only their present condition. But what a change when that person is transformed by the miraculous power of God!

Whom God calls, He fits. The moment He calls, He supplies the power to comply with His request. He provides a continual supply of power, subject to continual obedience on the part of those He calls. Excuses are unavailing. Moses, in the presence of God, made excuses that he was slow of speech, but God told him that he would use him, regardless of any handicap he may have had.

Perhaps you are saying that you are not called to full service for God. Listen to what William Booth, founder of The Salvation Army said:

"Not called, did you say? Not heard the call, I think you should say. He has been loudly calling ever since He spoke your sins forgiven — if you are forgiven at all — entreating you and beseeching you to be His ambassador. Put your ear down to the Bible and hear Him bid you go and pull poor sinners out of the fire of sin. Put your ear down to the burdened, agonizing heart of humanity and listen to its pitiful wail for help."

What about you? Do you hear God's voice speaking to you? Is He calling you to greater service? If so, answer that call.

Isn't That A Big One!

Carlene Dowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carson Dowell, 835 Braddock Road, proudly adds a splendid specimen of the Cecropia moth to her animal collection which won her the "most worthwhile" prize in a hobby show held recently at Mt. Royal Playground. Carlene, who will celebrate her seventh birthday July 27, has been collecting animals for several years.

Firemen Face Two Weeks Of Brush Burning

Work May Resume In South End Tomorrow

The Cumberland Fire Department hopes to resume its grass and brush burning program tomorrow, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

He said it will take two solid weeks of work to burn over the areas which cause most of the grass fires in the city.

If weather conditions are right, Chief Parker said, the work will resume tomorrow, clearing an area on Laing Avenue extended.

Next in line are areas on Braddock Road and Brown Avenue on the West Side.

Chief Parker said the recent burning of a large area on Wempe Field has paid for itself already. Grass fires in South Cumberland, he added, have been cut 85 per cent.

The controlled burning of the areas subject to grass fires, Chief Parker said, will be continued throughout the summer, as wind and weather conditions permit, and as firemen can be scheduled for the work.

The grass and brush is burned systematically by volunteer crews on their time off. The men receive an additional day's vacation for each day of brush burning.

Collecting Living Things Proves Worthwhile Hobby

By E. WESLEY BLACKBURN

Learning more about living things is one of the interesting hobbies of little Carlene Dowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carson Dowell, 835 Braddock Road.

Carlene, who will be 7 this month, began collecting animals shortly after her family moved here from Sacramento, Calif., in the fall of 1954, when her father was named assistant sales manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

She began collecting butterflies, moths and insects including wasps because of her interest in "anything that lives" in nature.

He collection was judged the most worthwhile in a hobby show held last week at Mt. Royal Playground.

The only unscientific thing about Carlene's hobby is the method of collection.

Her sole equipment consists of her two capable hands and a jar with a lid on it.

After collecting a specimen, she begins to prepare it for her exhibit by dropping a piece of alcohol-saturated cotton into the container.

Then it is added to the growing collection in cellophane covered boxes.

Carlene knows the scientific names of many of her prizes, collected either near her home or on hikes taken with her family.

Other hobbies in which she takes an active interest are piano lessons and freestyle drawing.

She is one of four children and all of them have hobbies.

Don, 14, has been interested in building model airplanes for years, and is a drummer in the Allegheny High School Senior Band.

Kay Lynne, 11, plays the piano, violin and Hawaiian guitar and is now adding the drum to her accomplishments.

John, 5 1/2, collects rocks, and is adept at keeping all members of the family busy.

Wheat Loan Price For Counties Listed

Prices for Maryland wheat under loan are lower for Garrett and Allegheny counties than in any of the state's other 21 counties, according to an informational letter released over the weekend by Chester S. Bradley, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The price for Grade No. 1 wheat in Garrett County is $2.10 per bushel and in Allegheny County $2.15. The prices range upward to a high of $2.27 a bushel in Howard County. Wheat loan prices for lower grades of wheat range downward to $2.01 in Garrett and $2.06 in Allegheny County for Grade No. 5 wheat.

Comparatively few wheat growers in Allegheny County obtain price supports for their wheat because they are able to sell it for about $2 a bushel on the open market.

Mrs. Blanche Myers of Frostburg owned the house in which Mrs. Bernette Broy resided. The other half of the house was unoccupied. The owner could not be reached immediately, so firemen did not know whether the property was insured.

City To Act On Frederick Street Project

Assessment Report Will Be Presented

The Mayor and Council are slated to take final action on the Frederick Street improvement project this morning.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the Engineering Department will present a final report on the project, along with specific assessments against property owners.

Anyone wishing to protest, he said, will be heard before formal action is taken by the Mayor and Council.

In a report of June 6, City Engineer C. R. Nuzum listed assessments to property owners on the area between Woodlawn Terrace to Bopp's Addition at $9.92 a front foot.

To Total $116,045

Assessments in Bopp and Schlund Additions were listed at $8.35. These figures did not include the cost of aprons to driveways, which were to be charged at the rate of $4.25 a foot, half the contract price.

Assessments to property owners in the report totaled $116,045. Under the above plan, the city would recover almost half of the $247,298 charged to the city in the federal-aid project.

About half of the cost, which exceeded half a million dollars, was paid from federal funds through the Bureau of Public Roads.

The assessments include $81,774.31, half of the cost of providing a storm sewer for the 7,000 foot stretch.

Protest Sewer Cost

Property owners have protested the storm sewer charge, saying the facility corrects drainage from Bedford Street and that only half of the cost should be charged to Frederick Street.

One city official pointed out that the assessment will compare favorably with similar projects.

Kent Avenue, built several years ago, was used for the comparison. Cost to property owners of that street was $7.85 a front foot, for a six-inch thick concrete street, with rolled curb.

Sidewalks, at the current rate of $3.15 a front foot, would bring cost to $10.99.

Douglas May Leaves Hospital

The second of the badly burned victims of the flash fire at the site of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant on June 19 was released from Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Douglas May, 46, of 715 Sylvan Avenue, was discharged from the hospital at 6:05 p. m. after recovering from severe burns received in the mishap.

E. C. Butcher, 46, of Webster Springs, W. Va., the least seriously hurt of the 10 men who were trapped by the blaze was discharged from the hospital earlier.

Still hospitalized are Kenneth Valentine, 46, of 818 Maplewood Lane; Leo V. Mills, 43, of RD 1, Ridgely; Clarence B. Fosnight, 54, Front Royal, Va.; Robert M. Weller, 45, Hagerstown; and Carl Bird, 51, Christiansburg, Va.

Three men died as a result of burns received in the accident. They were George Wolfe, 29, of Ellerslie; Russell Hendricks, 42, of Keyser; and Robert Bower, 20, of 111 Main Street, Ridgely.

The hospital said last night the five remaining victims are much improved, although Valentine is still listed as only "fair."
